IRISH THRONGS BEAT PILGRIMS DUBLIN-BOUND

Apparently Anti-Catholic Temper Breaks Out in Four Cities.

MANY PERSONS HURT BY HURLED MISSILES

Windows Broken in Trains, Buses and Boats; Women Become Hysterical.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, June 26 (A.P.).—Catholic pilgrims on their way to and from the Eucharistic Congress at Dublin were stoned today in various parts of northern Ireland in an outburst of apparently anti-Catholic attacks which caused many injuries.

Feeling flared into riotous conditions in four cities as pilgrims were departing from the congress and later seven of nine trains filled with pilgrims returning from Dublin were stoned between Portadown and Belfast.

From both sides of the track came the attack, smashing windows of the cars and severely cutting several passengers.

Clashes occurred at Belfast, Ballymena, Larne and Coleraine. Scores were injured, a few seriously, before the pilgrims started their excursions.

Tonight the Bishop of Down and Connor sent a telegram to Sir Dawson Bates, northern Ireland's minister for home affairs, demanding protection for the pilgrims on their return journey.

Pilgrims Worsted in Fight.

The worst outburst occurred at Ballymena, where a mob was on hand as hundreds of pilgrims gathered at the railway station to board their trains.

A fight developed and as it progressed it became evident the pilgrims were being worsted, and the police succeeded only in confining the infuriated crowd to the opposite side of the roadway, while stones and bottles could still be hurled at the pilgrims.

Before the officers took a hand, however, several pilgrims were beaten and kicked. Some women were thrown down, their hats yanked off, their umbrellas broken, and their basket luncheons taken from them.

Girls Become Hysterical.

Many girls among the pilgrims became hysterical. Others wept and still others knelt in prayer.

As the train left the station, large stones bumped off the carriage roofs, broke windows and littered the corridors with broken glass.

Before the attack occurred a crowd of Orangemen (Irish Protestants) paraded through the principal streets of the town singing party songs and abusing the Pope.

At Larne, a clash occurred as the pilgrims were about to board a steamer for Dublin. The windows of their buses were smashed and several were injured seriously.

Other Outbreaks Minor.

At Belfast and Coleraine disturbances were comparatively minor. In the capital, stones were thrown at trains conveying pilgrims to the Great Northern Station, where they were to entrain for Dublin. The police made a baton charge and two policemen were injured. Omnibus windows were broken in Coleraine in a similar display.

The port holes of the excursion steamers at Larne also were broken by stones, some of which struck several men among the pilgrims. Stones also crashed through the windows of St. Narcissus Chapel at Larne.

There long has been religious dissension between northern and south-

MacDonald Sends London Arms Note

Message Follows Parley With Gibson on Plan of Hoover.

London, June 26 (U.P.).—An important message from Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald was believed to have been brought to London today by Sir Herbert Samuel, who returned unexpectedly from the disarmament conference at Geneva.

MacDonald today consulted with Hugh S. Gibson, of the American delegation, at Gibson's villa near Geneva, and it was understood they discussed the Hoover plan for reduction of armaments, which MacDonald was said to approve without reservation, although the British cabinet is cool to the naval proposals.

Samuel consulted with several cabinet members tonight and will continue his conversations tomorrow, after which he will return to Switzerland.

Minister Fifth to Die As Feud Flares Anew

Hundreds of Shots Crash Into House Where Kentucky Officers Are Barricaded; Troops Called Out, but Order Later Withdrawn.

London, Ky., June 26 (A.P.).—Twenty-five Kentucky National Guard troops were ordered into the New Salem section of Laurel County this afternoon after one man was killed and several others were believed wounded fatally in the outbreak of a feud that already has cost five lives.

Later the troops were ordered withdrawn by Adjut. Gen. H. H. Denhardt. After a telephone conversation with Sheriff W. A. Steele Denhardt said he felt there was no further need for the guardsmen.

The fight at New Salem was said by authorities to have been a renewal of a feud of long standing. Sheriff Steele said a group of men hiding in the hills fired at Henry Brummit and Joe Smith, wounding Brummit in the leg.

When the sheriff and five deputies went to the scene their automobile was fired upon from the hills, two bullets entering the car, but missing the occupants. The officers hid in a ditch for several hours while the men in the hills kept up an intermittent fire.

Several hundred shots were fired, the sheriff said, many striking the home of Dave Watkins, where the officers sought shelter during a lull in the shooting.

From inside the house, Sheriff Steele telephoned a request for aid to London, and the troops were then ordered out. The men in the hills fled and were trailed by bloodhounds after the guardsmen arrived.

The man killed was Granville Walker, 84, a minister, who was passing the Watkins home when the firing started. He was shot four times. Another man known only as "Profit," was shot in the hand.

The trouble, authorities said, started when George Bolling testified before the grand jury last year regarding liquor activities. Shortly afterward Bolling was called to the door of his home and shot to death. Since then four other persons, including Walker, have been killed in outbreaks attributed to rivalry between liquor operators.

CAPITOL POLICEMAN TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Body of Cyrus D. Thomas Is Discovered in Woods Near County Hospital.

Cyrus D. Thomas, 25 years old, of 1900 F street northwest, a member of the Capitol police force for eight years, killed himself with a .32-caliber automatic pistol yesterday afternoon in woods near the Montgomery County General Hospital after he had informed Mrs. C. C. Tumbleson, wife of Dr. Tumbleson, of the hospital staff, that he was going to end his life.

Mrs. Tumbleson told Montgomery County police that the man dashed up to her while she was on the porch of her home about 2:15 o'clock and shouted that he was "going to end it all." Mrs. Tumbleson had never seen the man before, she said. He was in civilian clothes.

After he had dashed into the woods, she notified Montgomery County police headquarters in Rockville. A searching party was instituted and at 4 o'clock the policeman's body was found, slumped by a tree, by Milton Brown, of Rockville, after the man's car had been found. An empty .32-caliber pistol holster was in the car. A number of .45-caliber bullets were in the policeman's pockets.

Notes found on Thomas indicated he was worried over his job and had contemplated suicide. One of the notes was to his mother, Mrs. F. S. Thomas, of Lisbon, N. Dak. He was not married and had no relatives in Washington.

Dr. J. W. Bird, chief of staff of the Montgomery County General Hospital, issued a certificate of suicide. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Warner E. Pumphrey in Rockville.

His Mother Unchanged, Archbishop Curley Says

Dublin, June 26 (A.P.).—Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, who celebrated the solemn pontifical mass that concluded the Eucharistic Congress here today, said the condition of his 92-year-old mother, who is dying at her home in Athlone, remained the same.

She was reported to be semiconscious, rallying occasionally. The archbishop said yesterday the end might come at any time.

POLICE MOVE ANEW TO EVACUATE ARMY

Glassford Sends Letters to Members of Congress, but Veterans Are Firm.

Despite leadership troubles, a monotonous diet of beans, stew and bread, and internal bickerings, bonus army chieftains last night shrugged their shoulders at police moves to obtain 1-cent-a-mile railway transportation for them to their homes.

"The answer is the same," said the veterans; "we are going to stick till they pay the bonus."

A sharp discrepancy between police and official veteran figures as to the number of bonus seekers here was revealed last night. A police communique said less than 12,500 are here, while the B. E. F. tabulation claimed 21,250.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, yesterday started the wheels working to obtain financial aid from respective communities of the veterans in order to transport the men home on the 30 per cent of normal rate offered by railroads.

A letter outlining the seriousness of the situation here and asking various members of Congress to negotiate with their jurisdictions to obtain the transportation money was drafted and delivered to the legislators. Motorcycle policemen delivered the letters to the precincts in which the members of Congress live and they were delivered by the men on the beats. Several representatives early last night called police head-

Rebel Cantonese Ships Take Chinese Steamer

Hongkong, China (Monday), June 27 (A.P.).—Gunboats operated by the rebel commander of the Cantonese navy, Admiral Chan Chak, today captured a Chinese steamer taking ammunition south for Cantonese regular forces.

Gen. Chan Chai-Tong immediately sent three airplanes in a desperate effort to recover the munitions, which included 5,000 rifles and were valued at nearly $500,000. These planes bombed the gunboats without effect.

Pontifical Mass Concludes Dublin Eucharistic Session

Million Worshipers Jam Phoenix Park for Closing Service Featured by Radio Benediction by Pope; Vast Procession Follows.

Dublin, June 26 (A.P.).—A solemn pontifical high mass before a million worshippers and a great religious procession climaxed the thirty-fifth Eucharistic Congress, which ended here today with a radio benediction broadcast from the Vatican by Pope Pius XI.

Reception of the apostolic benediction, at the conclusion of the pontifical mass in Phoenix Park, was marred by the droning of an airplane nearby, so that few realized until afterward that his holiness had spoken.

Then the multitude marched to an altar on O'Connell Bridge, in the heart of Dublin, where their numbers were too dense to let them reach the procathedral and the celebration, as a consequence, was brought to a close at the bridge.

Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, celebrated the final pontifical high mass in Phoenix Park.

Ten cardinals, including Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, who presided at the mass, and scores of archbishops and bishops were gathered before the high altar. The congregation stretched so far the ritual had to be carried to them through loudspeakers.

Two hymns were sung by John McCormack, famous Irish tenor, who is a papal count.

At the conclusion of the pontifical mass the archbishop retired and the vast congregation wound itself out of the little plain into a great procession, brave with banners and rich with the vestments of the church.

Four streams of eight abreast marched slowly and solidly along dif-

TOKYO MINISTER OF WAR SCORES ARMS CUT PLAN

Slash Impossible, Says Araki in Discussing Hoover Proposal.

AVERS IDEA UNFAIR TO SOME COUNTRIES

Denies Role of Air Bombers Will Determine Japan's Final Decision.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Tokyo, June 26 (A.P.).—Gen. Sadao Araki, Japan's Minister of War, today declared that reduction of land armaments by fixed percentages was impossible. He was commenting on the Hoover proposal to cut armaments by one-third.

The general raised the point of security in the discussion.

"The elements entering into the organization of any nation's armament are manifold and complicated, varying with the particular situation of each country," Gen. Araki explained.

Sees Injurious Results.

"Therefore, it is impossible to reduce armaments by fixed percentages which inevitably would involve unfair estimates of the particular defense situation of one or more powers. Obviously such attempts are bound to produce results injurious to the security of some nation."

The war minister of the new Nationalist coalition government referred to the proximity of huge Russian and Chinese armies as Japan's "particular defense situation."

Hold Abolition Difficult.

Declaring that comment in detail on the various points of the Hoover proposals would be premature while the statesmen in Geneva were still studying them, Gen. Araki said it was his personal opinion, however, that it would be exceedingly difficult to abolish tanks, large mobile guns and bombing planes.

The general asserted that such weapons constitute a vital element of the national defense of many nations today.

Gen. Araki denied that the important role of air bombers in the present Manchurian campaign would determine Japan's final decision about such weapons.

Hausner Arrives For One-Day Visit

Meets Officials of Polish Embassy; May Call on President.

(Associated Press.)

Stanley Felix Hausner, unsuccessful transatlantic flier, stopped in Washington yesterday for a day's visit with Polish Embassy officials after his recent tumultous welcome at Miami.

The Polish aviator, who was landed at Miami Wednesday night after being rescued from his near-sinking plane far out in the Atlantic, was welcomed at the Commercial Airport by Stanislaw Massaliki, secretary of the embassy.

He was escorted to his hotel by the embassy official. Today the flier will be guest of honor at a luncheon given by Ambassador Filipowicz. The Ambassador probably will present him to President Hoover, but arrrangements for that had not been made last night as the President was at his Virginia mountain camp.

Hausner, who has announced he plans another Atlantic flight, will go to New York tomorrow.

Curtis at Checkers On Eve of His Trial

Most of Today to Be Spent Picking Jury to Try Norfolk Builder.

Flemington, N. J., June 26 (A.P.).—John Hughes Curtis, who will go on trial tomorrow accused of obstructing justice in the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery, kept at his checkers in the vine-covered jail today, interrupting a game with his guards for a final conference with his lawyers.

The Norfolk boat builder has spent many of the tedious hours of his more than a month's imprisonment over the checkerboard. He has become a shrewd player, jail attendants say.

Flemington's historic colonial courthouse was closed and quiet, but the legal machinery inside was in readiness for tomorrow's trial. Sixty-two talesmen have been summoned for jury duty, and it was expected most of a court day would be required for selection of the 12 who will decide upon Curtis' guilt.

6 SUPPLY BILLS AWAIT PASSAGE BEFORE FRIDAY

Congress Is Faced With Task to Enact Measures by New Fiscal Year.

RELIEF PLANS ALSO PRESENT PROBLEMS

Adjournment Hoped For by Saturday, but Legislative Jam May Block It.

(Associated Press.)

A close race against time faces Congress to get the vital governmental appropriation bills through before Friday, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Plans for adjournment of the session hang almost entirely on the unemployment relief legislation which has developed a sharp conflict between President Hoover and Congress, on one hand, and the House and senate on the other.

Leaders hope to wind the session up by Saturday, but they temporarily have laid their plans aside for the more immediate problem of providing Government funds for the next fiscal year.

This means a tremendous task if all the supply bills are to go on the statute books by midnight Thursday.

Controversy Over Economy.

The raging controversy over governmental economy has delayed these vital measures as they never have been delayed before, and they are piled high, awaiting action.

Of the annual supply bills, only one has gone to the White House. That was the comparatively unimportant $43,000,000 Interior Department bill, carrying little more than 1 per cent of the Government's funds.

Six more bills have passed both houses, and are now in conference, having differences between the House and Senate ironed out, but three have not yet been acted on in the Senate.

The two biggest bills, those carrying funds for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments and independent offices, are now before the Senate.

Cut in I. C. C. Appropriation.

A battle has developed over the billion dollar independent offices bill because of the action of the Senate appropriations committee in cutting from $3,000,000 to $750,000 the appropriation for investigating railroad valuations under the recapture clause of the transportation act.

Congressional chieftains were confident, however, that they could dispose of the supply bills before the deadline. They were not so optimistic over the relief situation.

The tug of war between the House and Senate over the $2,300,000,000 relief bill will begin in earnest today. A preliminary conference was held Saturday and yesterday the negotiators studied the vital differences between the bills as passed by the two houses. They were hopeful a compromise could be reached, but were not optimistic of finding one that would suit President Hoover. Both bills contain provision for large public works programs financed by bond issues, to which the President is stanchly opposed.

Another Adjournment Snag.

Another possible snag in the adjournment situation was a controversy between the two houses over the $150,000,000 national economy bill. The Senate has disagreed to the conference report on this measure and sent it back for further negotiation with the House. Speaker Garner must again name conferees. Two of the former House managers, McDuffie, of Alabama, and Douglas, of Arizona, are in Chicago. House leaders have indi-

British Union Jack Is Lowered by Girl

Scottish Standard Raised Over Castle as Guard Stands Idly By.

Bannockburn, Scotland, June 26 (A.P.).—Scotland was set agog today by a party of excited Scottish Nationalists, led by a girl, Miss Wendy Wood, who invaded Sterling Castle last night and hauled down the Union Jack, substituting the Scottish standard.

The invasion was bloodless—the garrison of Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders was having a sports meeting elsewhere—and while the Nationalists were triumphant most of the populace were laughing at the incident.

Wendy's call to arms was answered by about 100 men, who stormed into the castle while a few soldiers remaining there were too astonished to offer any resistance. The soldiers, however, soon replaced the Union Jack.

MOVE MADE TO SWING OHIO 58 TO ROOSEVELT ON EVE OF CONVENTION

New York's Governor Denies Promise to Back Shouse.

ANSWERS CHARGES ON CHAIRMANSHIP

Hague Had Said "Principle of Keeping One's Word" Was Violated.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Through James A. Farley, Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight said flatly that he had never authorized anyone to bind him to the support of Jouett Shouse as permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention.

The Farley statement came after Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, one of Alfred E. Smith's leaders, had charged the attempt of the Roosevelt forces to make Senator Walsh, of Montana, convention chairman, was a violation of a "moral principle—a principle of keeping one's word."

In a formal statement, Farley said he had communicated with Gov. Roosevelt after Hague's statement and was authorized to say:

"That neither he (Roosevelt) nor any authorized representative of his at any time or in any way bound him or his friends morally or otherwise to vote for Mr. Shouse as permanent chairman in the convention."

Action Called Traitorous."

The Democratic committee on arrangements "commended" Shouse for the chairmanship and Roosevelt foes claimed it was the New York governor's consent.

Hague also called the Roosevelt move to abrogate the two-thirds rule "traitorous" and predicted neither it nor the attempt to head off Shouse would be successful.

Dewitt C. Dewolf, secretary to Gov. Ely of Massachusetts, who will nominate Smith, also assailed the efforts to discard the rule.

Meantime, Samuel Untermeyer, prominent New York attorney and Roosevelt supporter, joined in the war of statements by calling for abrogation of the rule.

Sees Wall Street's Hand.

"No one can adequately appraise the harm it has done the party; the bitter strife it has engendered; the incurable wounds it has inflicted, nor how often it has resulted in balking the popular will and the selection of candidates," said Untermeyer. "Denial of the rule of the majority is essentially undemocratic."

Asserting the seat of Government had rested in Wall street for twelve years, he said:

"The special interests that have ruled and well-nigh destroyed our country owe their allegiance, give their support and, logically and historically, belong to the Republican party.

"The further we and our candidate keep away from them and their secret emissaries in our party, the better for the party and the people."

Reds in Manila Attack "Imperialism" of U.S.

Manila (Monday), June 27 (A.P.).—One thousand Filipinos attending the opening of a three-day Communist convention today listened to fiery speeches which included attacks on United States "imperialism."

The convention adopted a resolution defending Russia against attacks. Police were present, but did not interfere.

Illinois Is Roosevelt State, Rainey Asserts

(Associated Press.)

Representative Rainey, Democratic leader of the House, said last night that his vote as one of the Illinois delegates, released by Senator Lewis, would be cast for Gov. Roosevelt of New York.

Though Rainey will not be at the convention to cast his ballot, he said his alternate would vote for the New York Governor.

"After the first or second ballot," he commented, "Roosevelt will get all the Illinois vote. It's a Roosevelt State. There's no question about that."

Asked about abolition of the two-thirds rule, the Democratic leader said:

"I favor a majority rule. The two-thirds rule came in with the Andrew Jackson period and was sponsored by him to defeat somebody else and to gratify his spite for a political enemy. It seems to me that after 100 years we ought to get away from the rancor of the Jackson period."

NEW YORK FAVORS TWO-THIRDS RULE

Caucus Fails to Disclose Candidate Tammany Will Support.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—A caucus tonight of the New York State delegation, at which a resolution favoring the retention of the two-thirds rule was adopted, failed to clarify the mystery of what candidates Tammany will support for the presidential nomination and for permanent chairman of the Democratic convention.

The meeting adopted the two-thirds rule motion by a vote of 65 to 27, after a lengthy controversy over whether the action would bind the delegation. The chairman of the meeting, John H. McCooey, issued the following statement:

"A caucus can not bind delegates. This is merely an expression of opinion. It does not bond any one irrevocably against an expression of his own opinion."

On motion of John F. Curry, Tammany leader, the caucus unanimously adopted a resolution to bind the delegates to favor a plank for repeal of the eighteenth amendment upon ratification by State conventions, return of control of the liquor traffic to the States and immediate repeal of the Volstead act.

The resolution also pledged party representatives to vote for the repeal program and instructed the New York member of the resolutions committee to work for a plank with such provisions.

The meeting adjourned without even discussing the presidential nominee and chairmanship battles.

James A. Farley, Roosevelt campaign manager and Democratic State chairman, sat on the platform beside McCooey, while the king pins of Tammany sat in the first row below them.

The chief of them, Curry, was named chairman of the delegation.

An indication that Pennsylvania delegates to the convention will give more than half their votes for abolition of the two-thirds rule came

Gov. White Is Besought by Delegate to Quit Race.

WALSH DENOUNCES TWO-THIRDS RULE

Former Senator Reed Balks Effort to Induce Him to Release Votes.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Clenching the strong upper hand they hold, the Roosevelt lieutenants worked with all their might tonight to assure the Democratic presidential nomination for the Governor of New York, even before the national convention opens tomorrow.

The Ohio, Missouri, up-State Illinois and Texas delegations were getting major attention from envoys of the Roosevelt cause. His headquarters made public a telegram from W. W. Durbin, a delegate from Kenton, Ohio, urging Gov. White to release the 52 Ohio delegates. Durbin is a delegate at large from Ohio. His telegram to White read:

"I have talked to ever so many of younr friends and they all feel you would make yourself the greatest man in America if you release the Ohio delegation and not join the stop-Roosevelt movement, which is made up of Frank Hague, Tammany and the big public utilities interests who seek to defeat Roosevelt."

Missouri Dissension.

Gov. White has been mentioned as a vice presidential possibility.

Dissension in the Missouri delegation persisted, a substantial element wanting former Senator Reed to free the delegates holding the 36 votes, but there was no sign of Reed giving his sanction.

Among the fast-flying rumors widely credited was one that the Illinoisans from Cook County were getting ready to give Roosevelt practically the entire Illinois vote, instead of only the 25 or so claimed.

Roosevelt sentiment lifted its head in the Texas delegation which has 46 votes pledged to Speaker Garner. Senator Connally, of that State, declared it was firm for Garner, however. A letter made public at Roosevelt headquarters, written there by Oscar O. Whitenack, of Denver, Colo., said:

"The convention is to be flooded with telegrams at the proper moment protesting the nomination of Roosevelt and all to be instigated and paid for by the power trust. The press, the radio and the telephone companies are allied against us."

Anti Leaders Watchful.

As bellicose as ever, the anti-Roosevelt forces maintained an alert watch and kept up their efforts to keep the favorite son States intact.

First and last, regardless of rumored defections from his ranks, James A. Farley, Roosevelt manager, has insisted they have the votes to authorize nomination by a simple majority. Tonight he stuck by his figures of 650 at least, with 578 being a majority of the 1,154 delegates. Looking to the nomination proper and allowing for the Illinois break, the Roosevelt people have topped the 700 mark in their claimed column. New shifts claimed for them, if they hold, would about foreclose the nomination.

There was no concerted disposition among the delegates to accept the outcome of any of the disputes as certain. Talk of deals, murmurs of resentment against Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith, hints of going into home territory against people holding out against Roosevelt—all combined to suffuse the atmosphere with uncertainty, anxiety and at times a nervousness bordering on frenzy as dele-

Criticism Barrage Grows On Savings Bill Features

Postal Clerks' President Brands Furloughs as Unfair.

The economy bill provision which would bring about the dismissal of one or the other of married couples in Government employ was assailed yesterday by the National Woman's Party as a discrimination against married women.

The Woman's Party bolsters this charge with a barrage of "reasons why," including a statement from Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, chairman of the national council, National Woman's Party, in which she observes that "equality of opportunity is regarded as one of the most highly prized traditions of our country, and this equality should be open to women as to men."

"If this bill does not contemplate discriminations against women," the women critics of the bill query, "then why, for some weeks past, have lists

Woman's Party Attacks Married Workers Restriction.

The furlough plan for Government workers was branded yesterday as "a senseless excuse for rushing into enaction a law which will not inflict the penalty with equal justice to all," by Thomas F. Dolan, president of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks.

"The problem of retrenchment, so far as Government employes are concerned, should be indefinitely postponed," Mr. Dolan declared. "If prosperity is soon to be with us again, as some are pleased to suggest, the necessity for payless furloughs, the direct method of wage reduction, or the five-day week, with its five days' pay, may become a disagreeable memory. A haphazard economy program is not justified. 'No economy' is preferable to hurried, indiscriminate and unbalanced economy."

As an illustration of the "unfair-

PLATFORM BUILDERS LABOR AMID UPROAR

Dry Law, Idle and Farm Relief Planks Are Still Unwritten.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Democratic platform builders hammered most of their secondary structure into place tonight, but the noise they made in the hot, smoke-dimmed room where they worked was not nearly so great as that which crowded upon them from the hotel hallway outside.

Proposals titled prohibition, unemployment and farm relief were before the nine coatless subcommitteemen as they worked, but these went over for another session to be held just before the convention.

As they agreed upon the phraseology of the secondary portions of the text they will take to the country in the coming campaign a kilted girls' band tooted for Gov. Murray in the lobby below and crowds of delegates jostled and talked outside the door.

Repealists Confident.

On prohibition, one of the major proposals on which they worked, a majority of the subcommittee were confident they would put through a declaration for submission of the question of repeal without pledging the party for it. Efforts will be made, however, to have the party favor repeal.

Most of the Roosevelt followers, who are in control of the provisional platform group, are holding out for this submission without recording the party for repeal, but a few of them, including William A. Comstock, member from Michigan, as well as Alfred E. Smith, leader of the anti-Roosevelt forces, are expected to work for a straightout repeal pledge.

Agreement on a tariff plank calling for a lowering of existing walls and for an international conference to consider trade agreements was reached without much debate.

Palmer Put in Charge.

Foreign policies, including the war debt issue, developed a lot of argument. The Roosevelt ians were insistent upon a declaration against cancellation of the debts, but for an attitude of leniency on interest payments during the world depression.

A. Mitchell Palmer, delegate from the District of Columbia, who conferred at length last Monday with Gov. Roosevelt, took charge of the subcommittee hearing late today. He carried a large brief case into the room.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, expressed belief an agreement was near on a silver plank to initiate an international conference looking to remonetization of the metal.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, emerging from the room with coat off and sleeves rolled high, said the subcommittee went over the entire tentative draft of secondary proposals.

Senator Hull, of Tennessee, remarked:

"We just got tired of talking and adjourned. Nothing of any tangible nature was agreed upon."

Proposals by Baruch.

Further brief open hearings will be held by the full platform committee tomorrow afternoon after it is formally established by the convention.

Then the subcommittee's draft will be taken over and the final touching up of phraseology begun. The completed platform is expected to be submitted to the convention floor on Wednesday.

Close by, in another hotel, Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board under President Wilson, proposed a plank favoring cutting Government expenditures by $1,000,000,000, adoption of the Wagner unemployment relief bill, repeal of the eighteenth amendment and a better deal for agriculture.

Placing the fiscal, agricultural, prohibition and employment problems as foremost, Baruch also declared against cancellation of the war debts and against any horizontal cut in the tariffs or international conference tariff.

Ohio Chiefs Would Head Off Roosevelt

White May Go to Chicago to Help Defend Two-thirds Rule.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—While gloom was thick among members of the Ohio delegation to the Democratic national convention tonight, over prospects for bringing the presidential nomination to Ohio, they were putting up a determined fight to head off Gov. Roosevelt, of New York.

It was reported former Gov. James M. Cox was in the city studying precedent for abrogation of the two-thirds rule and Harry G. Brunner, who will be the delegation chairman, indicated there was a possibility that he may call Gov. George White here to help fight the threat of Roosevelt's followers for abrogation.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene who will nominate Gov. White for President, and State Chairman Brunner both issued statements tonight opposing abrogation of the rule. Pomerene is slated to be Ohio's member on the rules committee, formal selection of which will be made at the delegation's caucus tomorrow.

Roosevelt Man Claims California Progressives

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—More than 100,000 Progressive votes now registered in California as Republicans would be thrown to Franklin Roosevelt if he is nominated by the Democratic convention, in the opinion of Milton T. Uren, president of the Roosevelt Republican Club of California.

In a telegram to Roosevelt headquarters from San Francisco Uren said: "Progressive Republicans of California will not support Republican nominee (Herbert Hoover), but will support a Progressive Democrat if nominated."

Arizona to Name Woman For Vice President Post

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Isabella Greenway, Tucson, will be placed in nomination for Vice President by the Arizona delegation to the Democratic national convention.

At a caucus tonight the Arizonans unanimously decided to place Mrs. Greenway's name before the convention. Mrs. Nellie T. Bush, of Parker, was named to make the nominating speech. Mrs. Greenway, an active worker for Roosevelt, was a schoolmate of Mrs. Roosevelt and a bridesmaid at the Roosevelt wedding. Mrs. Bush is a lawyer.

Indian Princess Whoops For Husband, Alfalfa Bill

Girl Scotch-Kiltie Band Chief Noise Maker for Oklahoma Governor; Mrs. Murray Says Spouse Is People's Best Bet.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, a Chickasaw princess, but proud enough of her husband to share his title, today joined the throng of Democratic women whooping it up for their candidates.

With the Girl Scotch-Kiltie Band, of Oklahoma City, as her chief noisemaker, she was stiff competition for the fashionably gowned Marylanders feting their governor, Albert C. Ritchie.

"I feel my husband is the poor people's best bet," said Mrs. Murray, stoutly. "I know his old heart, and I know what he is trying to do for the people of the United States."

When "Alfalfa Bill" Murray was asked what was his best bid for the woman vote, he answered in writing, two words, "My wife," and signed his name to it.

Tall, blue-eyed, with a straightness of profile and erectness of bearing attesting her one-eighth Chickasaw blood, Mrs. Murray, in a knitted dark blue suit of smart design, contrasted with, rather than accented, her husband's rustic role.

But on her finger loyally flashed the diamond of an old-fashioned engagement ring, and she proclaimed herself a "plain country woman" who had "always looked to her husband for everything."

"He's just the same today as he was when I first met him, 36 or 37 years ago, in my home town, Tishomingo, capital of the Chickasaw Nation," she said. "He's just as funny at home as he is when he's out—though there are times when he has his thinking-cap on.

"I've never been much interested in politics. You see, when I was a girl, growing up, Indian Territory didn't belong. Then I had my little family to take care of—they're four big, strapping boys now, and one girl and a grandchild—a boy!"

Mrs. Murray is niece of Douglas H. Johnson, a governor of the Chickasaws. Her forefathers ranked high in tribal affairs, but she explained that Indian lineage goes by mothers, not fathers. She says she can't even remember her "houra name," got by mother-stock, under which she is entered on the tribal roll. And she laughed to recall how disappointed the guests were when a fried of hers had a tea in honor of "the Indian princess."

"If I'd known what they were expecting, I'd have dressed the part," she said.

Into all this Indian lore came the Girl Scotch Kiltie Band, chaperoned by Mrs. Murray's youngest sister, Mrs. Ada Bingham.

"Why the kilties? Has Oklahoma gone Scotch?" Mrs. Murray was asked.

She drew herself up regally.

"My husband is Scotch—Murray!" she emphatically answered.

Women Urge President To End 'Discrimination'

Charging that "there has been a widespread and flagrant discrimination against women in the making of appointments from eligible lists in the United States civil service," the American Alliance of Civil Service Women has directed a resolution to President Hoover, appealing to him to order the abolition of "the practice of certifying lists by sex at the mere whim or prejudice of the appointing officers."

The resolution asks that "single eligible lists be issued, and eligibles certified in the order of their standing, regardless of sex." The alliance claims that the "discrimination" is attributable to "a misinterpretation of an old rule of 1870, based on an executive order." The resolution charges that "women may take examinations, in many instances heading the lists, without ever being certified for appointment."

WEST FORMS BLOC FOR POLITICAL UNITY

Five States Organize Under Democratic Banner; Six Others May Join.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—A political coalition under the Democratic banner of at least five Western States was tentatively organized here today by delegates to the national Democratic convention. The States included are Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. The organization, looking toward unification of activity on political and economic matters, may eventually embrace the 11 Western States.

Speakers argued that such a group, speaking with one voice, and working in unison, would exert a great influence in the seat of Government.

Dr. Joseph F. Wood, chairman of the Oregon Democratic delegation, called today's meeting. Permanent organization is to be accomplished at a meeting this week. The board will consist of men appointed by the chairman of each State delegation.

G. Y. Harry, delegate from Oregon, who fostered the idea, declared the organization would lend itself admirably to intensive campaign work for the Democratic nominee for President.

D. M. Hurley, of Pasco, Wash., declared that by eliminating "territorial, accidental State lines" in the discussion of national problems, sectional jealousies would be overcome and the West would be able to speak with a powerful voice in national affairs. Walter M. Pierce, of La Grande, Oreg., said establishment in the Pacific Northwest of a branch of the national Democratic headquarters is possible if the organization is developed. Mrs. Elsie Pickings, of Toppenish, Wash., national committeewoman-elect from that State, urged immediate work on the plan and stressed need of "a definite, new, progressive movement in democracy."

The Montana delegation pledged support to the western movement through two members of the delegation from that State.

Other speakers were Roscoe Drumheller, of Seattle, national committeeman from Washington; Calvin W. Stewart, of Tacoma; Judson Shorett, of Seattle, chairman of the Washington delegation; Frank Garrecht, of Spokane; William Thompson, of Vancouver, Wash.; and Carl Donaugh, of Portland, chairman of the Democratic committee of Oregon.

Department to Aid Alien Money Plan

Support of Idea to End Foreign Exchange Ties Is Promised.

New York, June 26 (A.P.).—The group of exporters that recently submitted to President Hoover and other Government officials a plan designed to eliminate foreign exchange restrictions, announced today it had been promised the cooperation of the Department of Commerce in developing its proposals.

The plan would create a "specially organized bank to hold foreign currency deposits," and organize a "voluntary association of importers and exporters, for the clearing house for exchanges, to be operated as an adjunct to the Edge law bank."

George P. Reinberg, chairman of the joint committee on foreign exchange restrictions, in answer to a letter from Frederick N. Felker, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, said:

"It is our idea that the Edge act bank should provide the domestic bank guarantee required under section 5A of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, enabling exporters with frozen assets abroad to obtain twelve-month acceptances from the R. F. C., in this manner utilizing these frozen assets as a basis of credit in a further continuance of their legitimate business."

SHOUSE DENOUNCES ALLEGED BOLT PLAN

Asserts Bloc for Purpose Would Be Extremely Ill-Advised.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Talk of a bloc to bolt the Democratic ticket if Roosevelt is nominated through abrogation of the two-thirds rule was termed "extremely unwise and ill-advised" today by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the party's executive committee. He said he wanted to deny unequivocally that he had entered, or would consider entering any such combination.

"I shall support the nominee of the convention," he said.

Shouse said he had been told by a Southern delegate of an attempt to join the favorite-son candidates in a movement to bolt if the Roosevelt forces continued their fight on the two-thirds rule and put their candidate across in that manner.

"I told him it was extremely unwise and ill-advised," Shouse said. "The delegate came back later and said that Al Smith had told him the same thing."

Told that Smith had refused to say definitely in the last few days that he would support the nominee, Shouse said, "You'll have to talk to Gov. Smith about that. I can't speak for him."

Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr., of Georgia, arriving today at the head of his delegation, said he could not understand any attitude or doubt over support of the convention nominee.

"The Georgia delegation is solidly behind Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination," he said in a formal statement. * * *

"We from Georgia are real Democrats and will support the nominee of this convention, and our simon-pure brand of Democracy can not understand the mental attitude of an alleged Democrat who has been honored by our party in the past and yet quibbles and doubts whether he will support the nominee."

Louisianians Battle For Stadium Seats

Sanders Group Strives to Break Down Roosevelt Aid to Huey Long.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—The two groups of Louisianans fighting for recognition at the Democratic national convention as delegates from the Pelican State were waging a bitter submarine warfare tonight preparatory to taking the field with heavy artillery tomorrow before the credentials committee.

At the Stevens Hotel, the convention elected delegates rallied behind J. Y. Sanders and were driving hard to break through the wall of Roosevelt ian inspired support behind Huey Long in the hope they could draw enough delegates to give them a majority when the fight reaches the convention floor.

At the Congress Hotel, Senator Long held his group intact and held many hurried and secret conferences with Democratic leaders. He was joined today by his wife, who will strive to break down the anti-Long movement among women delegates, who were indignant over reports Long had referred to them as "skirts," which Long denied saying.

The battle is hot and furious, and tonight was headed straight for the convention because each side was determined to appeal to the body of the delegates if they should lose before the credentials committee.

400 Missouri Backers Of Reed Off to Chicago

Kansas City, Mo., June 26 (A.P.).—Four hundred supporters of James A. Reed, candidate for the presidential nomination at the Democratic national convention, departed on a special train at 8 a. m. today for Chicago.

Scores of other persons from the home town of the former United State senator already are in Chicago.

TWO HEADQUARTERS REQUIRED BY RITCHIE

Public Received in Ornate Room; Moves Planned on Another Floor.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—On two different floors of the crowded Congress Hotel, Democratic headquarters, the preconvention fight to nominate Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland for President is being carried on.

As far as the majority of the public is concerned, his campaign is being conducted in the ornate Florentine room on the second floor.

Under its painted arched ceiling, thousands of visitors are received each day, and Ritchie buttons are pinned on them by a group of Baltimore belles. For those who feel inclined to read, pamphlets are provided, presenting arguments why Ritchie should be nominated. Pictures of the governor are tacked under flags on the four sides of the room.

The governor rarely visits this room, but his appearance is the signal for handshakers and autograph hunters to crowd around.

Four floors higher, where most of the Maryland delegation is quartered, is another headquarters. It is there the governor holds his conferences, and where his aids make plans for campaign moves.

The governor's press conferences have been held on the upper floor since his arrival. So great a crowd gathered in the Florentine room that he was unable to make himself heard.

Two Naval Fliers, Missing, Are Safe

F. M. Nichols Landed Plane in Mexico; Lost in Mountain Cloud.

El Paso, Tex., June 26 (A.P.).—Lieut. F. M. Nichols, one of two naval fliers for whom a 24-hour search was conducted, arrived in Juarez late today and said their plane was landed safely yesterday at Gallegos, Chihuahua, Mexico. Gallegos is 160 miles from El Paso.

Nichols came to Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, by train. He said his companion, Lieut. Edward B. Arroyo, was left in charge of the plane.

The plane, one of six being flown from San Dego, Calif., to Hampton Roads, Va., was separated from the others in a mountain cloud bank.

The fliers were technically under arrest for landing on Mexican soil without permission, and the plane was subject to seizure. Daniel Duarte, chief of the immigration service in Juarez, conferred with Mexican military authorities to find some method of releasing the plane and its pilots. United States Consul William P. Blocker and Brig. Gen. Walter C. Short, commandant at Fort Bliss, here, represented the Navy fliers in the negotiations.

POSTAL CLERKS' HEAD ASSAILS FURLOUGHS

ness" of the furlough plan, Mr. Dolan charges that some Government employes, formerly accorded 30 days annual leave, are to be permanently penalized by a reduction to 15 days and, temporarily, further penalized by the loss of all annual leave. "A double penalty," he observes.

"Valuable matured employes, many almost indispensable, are to be summarily dismissed at automatic retirement age," Mr. Dolan said. "Their only offense is old age. Many of these who would be forced to exist on the scant retirement annuity would, through force of circumstances, not of their own making, become whole or partial dependents on public charity or, failing this, be forced to live in a manner to which our ever generous Government should hesitate to subscribe."

The portion of the economy bill proposed by the joint conferees, which would reduce extra compensation for night work to 50 per cent of the present compensation was assailed as "quite going the limit in the search for retrenchment."

"These employes," he said, "in addition to being penalized by the 30 days furlough and loss of vacation, are to be further embarrassed by the loss of half of their trifling award which is accorded them for their services under conditions which not only shorten their period of usefulness but, as well, deprive them of the normal manner of enjoying life."

Threat of the furlough to reach those receiving only slightly more than $1,000 elicited the comment from Mr. Dolan that "any human being needs considerably more than $1,000 a year to even live simply as a decent human being."

"Those who conceived that $1,000 is the dividing line between poor wages and taxable wages have a warped conception indeed of the rights and needs of even our most modest citizens," he declared. "They do not and would not care to struggle on such pitiful incomes, and still they stoop to enrich our budget through such ruthless savings."

Mr. Dolan opined that "the wisest course would be elimination of the economy features from the appropriation bill and enactment of the legislative ones. The matter of economy should be intelligently studied. Its discussion should be unhurried and, furthermore, not left to the mercy of harassed and perhaps hurriedly informed conferees convening in private deliberation."

Inquest Set for Today In Publisher's Death

Espanola, Ontario, June 26 (A.P.).—An inquest will be held tomorrow to determine the cause of the death of Frank G. Hamilton, Fort Wayne, Ind., publisher, who was found Saturday with a bullet wound in his head and a shotgun in his hands.

The body has been brought here from his summer cottage nearby and will be shipped to the United States on the receipt of word from relatives. Ontario police expressed the belief he was a suicide, but are interested in checking all the angles of the death.

Democratic Program For Today at Chicago

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—The Democratic national convention program for tomorrow:

Noon—Call to order by Chairman John J. Raskob of the national committee.

Election of temporary officers.

Keynote address by Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

Election of committees on credentials, permanent organization, rules and platform.

VIRGINIANS IN FAVOR OF TWO-THIRDS RULE

Delegates Vote to Support Shouse; Glass Named to Resolutions Body.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—An uncompromising protest against abrogation of the two-thirds rule for nomination was voiced tonight by the Virginia delegation to the Democratic national convention in a resolution adopted without a dissenting vote.

The Virginians also voted unanimously to support Senator Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, for temporary chairman of the convention; and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the national executive committee, for permanent chairman.

The routine business of the session was transacted within a few minutes and the delegates, roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm by a stirring address by Col. Henry Breckinridge, cheered to the echo the names of former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd and United States Senator Carter Glass.

Pays Tribute to Glass.

Breckinridge referred to Senator Glass as the ablest statesman in the Democratic party since the Civil War, and to Byrd as the only candidate for the Presidency against whom nothing could be said as to his availability or fitness.

Senator Glass, who has been working on the platform subcommittee for several days, was unanimously selected as the Virginia member of the resolutions committee. He came forward in response to a demand for a speech.

"Instead of me thanking you for the honor, I hope you can thank me for aiding in the writing of a platform on which Harry Byrd will be elected President of the United States," the senator said.

Mitchell Presents Motion.

On motion of Gen. William Mitchell, former chief of the Air Corps, the delegation adopted the following resolution by unanimous vote:

"We, the delegation to the Democratic national convention from the State of Virginia, are convinced that the paramount issue before the American people is the reduction of taxation by cutting down our governmental expenditures and we pledge ourselves under the leadership of Hon. Harry Flood Byrd to bring that about."

The resolution by Senator Glass against abrogation of the two-thirds rule asserted "this delegation thinks a rule that has appealed to the judgment of the Democratic party for 100 years furnishes a good enough test of the fitness and availability of any candidate for nomination before the convention which is to convene at Chicago on Monday noon."

Salvaged Bullion Is "Under Arrest"

Hold Ordered Sealed After Skipper, Saying He Found Egypt, Files Claim.

Plymouth, England, June 26 (A.P.).—Capt. J. B. Garli, of the salvage vessel Artiglio II, was considerably surprised today when he was told his cargo of gold bullion, brought up from the wrecked liner Egypt, was "under arrest."

On reaching Plymouth from the scene of the Egypt's hull near Brest, the chief preventive officer of the port, acting on instructions from the admiralty marshal, informed Capt. Carli that his hold must be sealed and the bullion held aboard.

It was understood the action followed upon a claim filed by Capt. Jean Davy, former captain of the tug Iroise, for a share in the gold on the ground that he was first to locate the wreck.

It is believed negotiations will follow with the result that Lloyd's bond will be accepted and the gold shipped to London tomorrow.

The Artiglio II was successful in its quest for $5,000,000 worth of gold and silver in the treasure room of the Egypt after two years of effort that cost fifteen lives.

MARRIED WORKERS RESTRICTION RAPPED

of married women been compiled in various Government offices and the women questioned as to their husband's employment, when this was not done with regard to married men?

"If married women are discharged, is there any guarantee that the ones retained will be those persons supporting large families, and not single men without dependents? If the basis for Government employment is need, why discharge a married woman with children or parents to support, and retain an unmarried person without dependents? And why allow anyone to work if he or she has independent means?

"In saying that one salary is enough for a family is it not necessary to know whether the salary is $1,000 or $10,000, and whether the family consists of one or five persons. If one salary is enough in a household, why especially penalize marriage?. Why allow a son or daughter to work if the father is able to support them? There are many instances in which two or more of a family are in Government service. Is it fair to legislate only against married persons?

"If this legislation is enacted, will it mean that in the future years marriage can only be for the rich?"

Mrs. Wiley observed that "it seems clear that it is the intent of Government officials to oust married women from their jobs, if Congress approves of this provision of the economy bill. The stand of the National Woman's Party is that women should not be singled out and discriminated against either in law or in practice."

DAY OF REST FINDS DEMOCRATS ACTIVE

Handshaking, Parleys and Open Joking Features of Sunday in Chicago.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—This day of rest was spent by most Democratic presidential aspirants in practicing already expert handshaking technique with "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's report card showing him at the head of the class.

Outside the bee-hive cluster of headquarters in Congress Hotel the sun spanked Michigan boulevard. Inside, crowds with right hands ready for action pushed and struggled through steaming corridors.

The Oklahoma Governor, mustache drooping somberly about his strong mouth, stood the ordeal better, apparently, than the others, although all bore up bravely.

His voice rang out "Jack," "Will," "Joe," "Tom," "Dick" and "Harry." He flung back any shafts of wit that came his way and he grasped all hands. Once or twice he worked his way through the crowds in his own room and started on the quickly extended palms of those in the hall.

Rogers Visits Jim Reed.

Murray and the others took time out now and then, retiring to private suites for personal conferences with serious-faced leaders and aids.

Former Senator "Jim" Reed missed a visit from Gene Tunney, but he was at his headquarters when Will Rogers dropped in.

Rogers tossed a fast quip and Reed shot back as fast a retort. Back and forth, they went with listeners laughing and then Reed suggested a ticket of Reed and Rogers.

Nobody told him that Alfalfa Bill had already made overtures to the humorist.

There was an added attraction at Gov. Byrd's headquarters. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, poised and handsome, arrived to take a look at the convention. The two brothers immediately had to form a receiving line to take care of the crowds.

Big "Jim" Farley, confident and jovial, at Roosevelt headquarters, dashed out and began plowing through the corridors. Suddenly he spied a group of Tammany delegates.

Scramble for Tickets.

"Well," he boomed so loud that everybody within 50 feet could hear, "I'm glad to see Tammany finally got here."

The scramble for tickets was about as hectic as that for the nomination. Flowing like water through the national headquarters, some threatened and some resigned themselves to reading the papers.

One candidate, at least, went to church.

Al Smith paid a quick visit to his headquarters after attending services. Then he gladly signed up a foursome for an afternoon of golf.

Gov. Ritchie had to cut short a visit with Huey Long to attend a tea given by the women in his campaign organization. The effervescent Louisiana senator twitted Ritchie and accused him jokingly of being a "lady killer."

Seabury Is Opposed To Rule's Abrogation

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Samuel Seabury, prosecutor of the investigation of the New York City government, tonight opposed the Roosevelt movement to eliminate the two-thirds nominating rule from the coming Democratic convention.

Seabury, who submitted to Gov. Roosevelt evidence which he said warranted the removal of Mayor James J. Walker from office, said: "Any candidate for the Presidency who changes the rules which prevailed at the time the delegates were elected in order to win the nomination can not, in my judgment, be elected."

gates were torn over which way to turn.

Plunging into the two-thirds rule controversy on behalf of the Roosevelt position, Senator Walsh, of Montana, and former Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, issued statements to night.

Walsh's Denunciation.

Walsh called the two-thirds rule a "cancer continually sapping the vigor and unity of the party" and said it resulted in a tendency to disunite instead of unite the party.

"Whenever there has been a number of candidates of almost equal merit and almost equal popular support, it has been a tedious proceeding to obtain two-thirds for any of them," he said. "Prolonged balloting subjects the party to a terrific nervous strain and often leaves it on the verge of a presidential election in a state of spiritual exhaustion.

"Worse than even this, such deadlocks also frequently result in the nomination of a compromise candidate who has neither an enthusiastic nor popular following."

Owen said:

"The two-thirds practice of former conventions has no binding force on the present convention and should be repudiated at the first available moment because the notion prevails that this rule has some sort of binding force. It has none whatever. It is true that many previous conventions adopted this practice at the urgent insistence of minorities. Every Democratic convention for 100 years has necessarily made its own rules and for that purpose always establishes a committee on rules.

"The present terrible depression makes it absolutely imperative to end this minority veto."

Program for Today.

Dressed still as it was for the Republican convention recently, the sprawling stadium waited with an empty quiet tonight for the multitude, the bands and the fervor that will sweep through it again tomorrow morning.

The program stipulates that John J. Raskob, the national chairman, shall rap for order at noon—but if experience tells, the delegates and alternates hardly will be ready then. There may be difficulty with the seating, due to the number of States that have sent a large number of fractional-voting delegates.

But once that is settled, the handshaking is over and a disposition to begin is evident—then will come the opening formalities and formal election of temporary officers. That over with, Senator Barkley launches into his keynote address.

Finally, the routine of selection of committees on credentials, permanent organization, rules and platform will end the opening session.

It may be, as some Roosevelt fans expect, that by late Thursday or Friday, the quadrennial powwow will be over; but the ticket arrangements, at least, are ready for a long, long stay. Whether prophetically or not, the ticket-packets passed out today provided separately for twelve sessions. And on that last yellow slip was printed:

"Good without stub thirteenth and successive sessions."

NEW YORK BACKS RETENTION OF TWO-THIRDS PRECEDENT

tonight in the election of a member of the rules committee in caucus.

Curtis Gregg, of Greensburg, a Roosevelt supporter, was named on a 48-to-23 vote to the rules committee. No action was taken directly on the rule or the question of whom to support for permanent chairman.

Members of the delegation predicted that more than half its 76 votes would go with the Roosevelt forces on their attempt to make nomination possible by a majority vote only.

Melvin Traylor stirred a tempest of speculation by going before the Illinois caucus to say he preferred party defeat tot victory "on a demagogic platform appealing to class prejudice."

"Demagogue" was the word chosen by Alfred E. Smith in the declaration to the party early this spring in which he made his first direct attack on Roosevelt.

Traylor's Bid for Support.

While he did not mention his own candidacy for the presidential nomination in as many words, the Chicago banker indirectly made a bid for the support of the Illinois delegation. His appearance at the caucus was a surprise.

Florida, Arkansas and Montana, Roosevelt States, in caucus decided to go along with forces of the New York Governor for scrapping the two-thirds rule and electing Senator Walsh, of Montana, permanent convention chairman. The three have 40 votes.

New Jersey, with 32 votes pledged to Alfred E. Smith, declared definitely against abrogation of the rule and for the election of Jouett Shouse as chairman. So did the Texas bloc of 46 votes, slated to go to Speaker Garner for the Presidency, at its meeting last night.

Kansas, a Roosevelt State, went along with his managers on the two-thirds rule, but split over the election of a chairman. Jouett Shouse is from Kansas and it was predicted he would get 9 of the delegation's 20 votes.

Idaho Also Favors Change.

Idaho's eight votes were also pledged at their caucus in favor of a change. There was a scrap before the group adopted a motion favoring its elimination at this convention. A substitute motion was made to discard the precedent after the presidential nomination but was voted down and there were only scattering "noes" to the resolution which carried.

Idaho had previously instructed for Walsh as permanent chairman at its State convention.

ROOSEVELT DENIES MATE IS SELECTED

Declaration Follows Story Senator Wheeler Had Been Chosen.

Albany, N. Y., June 25 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today hastened to tell the country he had extended no invitation to any man as yet to join him on the Democratic national ticket should his fight against Alfred E. Smith and a field of favorite sons prevail this week at Chicago. His attitude was made plain in a telegram sent his campaign manager, James A. Farley, at Chicago, denying published reports that he had invited Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, to make the run with him.

The telegram said:

"I understand that the Chicago Examiner says that I have asked Senator Wheeler to become vice presidential candidate with me this fall. This story is not true. I have already made it clear to the press and to the country that I have asked no one to become my running mate and that no one has been authorized to do so in my behalf."

Roosevelt's assertion that he had proffered no invitation for a running mate was viewed here as explaining that he still had this political "ace" to play. The invitation, extended to any prominent Democrat of a section uncrystalized to date in its attitude toward the Roosevelt candidacy, would, it was pointed out, possess a strong tendency to swing the delegates of that section into the presidential camp.

An official silence on the progress of the fight Farley was waging for him clung to the New York governor tonight as he sat at the receiving end of his "field telephone" into the Chicago war area.

Planes to Be Employed If Rail Strike Begins

Mexico City, June 26 (A.P.).—The department of communications has announced that airplanes may be utilized to handle mail and passengers between Guadalajara and Nogales, Sonora, if the Southern Pacific Railway strike scheduled for June 27 materializes.

The department said the Central Mexican Airways, which proposes to open a line from Mexico City to El Paso on July 1, had offered use of four trimotor ships to serve points on the Southern Pacific line if the strike occurs. The ships now are in Mexico, and can be put into service on short notice.

U. S. Is Lucky Retiring Of 'Boys' at 40 Failed

By JOHN J. DALY

'TWAS a mighty good stroke of fortune for the Old Guard of the Government service that the superannuation clause of the economy bill came before a Senate committee made up of men who know their ages.

Some of the striplings in the House of Representatives held out for retirement of veterans who had reached an age; but when the handiwork of the Left Wing got over to the Right Wing of Congress a bunch of the boys started whooping it up, and from now on there will be no superannuation until a man is actually superannuated.

And when is a man superannuated?

* * * *

AS Senator Hiram Johnson says, still going strong in his sixty-fifth year and pointing to the gavel-wielding powers of young Charlie Curtis, tipping the scales of time at 72, "I insist that, with me, efficiency has grown with the years. I decline to be put in the category of the superannuated who are no longer able to perform their work."

Good for Hiram, the young Senator from California!

All this talk about a man being out of the running because he has reached the ripe old age of 40, or thereabouts, is just so much hooey—horsefeathers, as we of the new generation say.

A man at 40 is just about getting started—perhaps.

It may be that a girl becomes of age when she reaches 18, but she is ripest at 40. Legally, a boy is a man when he attains the age 21; but that's a legal fiction. In reality he's only a gosling, and he doesn't become a goose till after 40.

* * * *

THAT age, for the start of man's work, is somewhere about right.

Until they get well into the 40s, few men know, or care, what it's all about. As they approach the half-century mark they begin to shake off the wild impulses of boyhood and settle down to the serious business of life.

It is easily seen that men are really only in the prime of life when some members in Congress want to superannuate them.

Tush! Tush!

Wait until a fellow starts getting into his second boyhood, around the 90-year-old mark, before separating him from his job and turning him out to play. Otherwise, there will be havoc with all this young blood running loose in the land.

RUSH TO ROOSEVELT SPURS GARNER AIDS

Texas and California Backers of Speaker Seek to Bolster Strength.

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—Texas and California Garner for President supporters fought doggedly for votes for their standard bearer today in the face of a rushing tide of Franklin D. Roosevelt strength preliminary to tomorrow's opening session of the Democratic national convention.

While the Texans were bound hard and fast to Speaker John N. Garner until released personally by him, there was a vast quantity of Roosevelt support in the delegation ready to shift to the New York Governor the moment Garner lifted the bonds imposed by the rigid instructions of the Texas State convention.

From a well informed supporter of Roosevelt in the Texas delegation came the information that no fewer than 98 of the 184 listed delegates from Texas favored Roosevelt and would vote for him if given an opportunity after discharging their obligation to the Texas representative. At a quarter of a vote apiece that made approximately 25 delegate votes waiting to shift should the Garner strength fail to offer promise of nominating him.

On the other hand, the Texas delegation leaders claimed accretions, some from previous unexpected quarters.

On the first ballot they expected a scattering of votes, principally from Alabama, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Minnesota and the Philippines. There also was a claim of at least four southern Illinois delegates for Garner, with an expectancy that more would go for the Texan.

The consensus of the Texas leaders for Garner only was that the Speaker's chances would be enhanced with each additional ballot should Roosevelt be halted.

Maury Hughes, Dallas attorney placed on the resolution and platform committee in a caucus last night, said today the rough draft of the platform was entirely unsuitable to him. It was too long and dealt with far too many subjects, he added.

HARVARD STUDENT FOUND DROWNED

Body of Youth Missing Since January 31 Discovered in Submerged Auto.

Providence, R. I., June 26 (A.P.).—An international search for Floyd Stewart, 23, of Garden City, Kas., missing Harvard student, ended today when Stewart's body was taken from the Seekonk River, off India street, this city.

Stewart disappeared on January 31 with Nathaniel E. Jones, 23, of Billerica, Mass., also a Harvard student. The body of Jones was recovered after it was washed on the shore of Watchemoket Cove, East Providence, on April 22 last.

Stewart's body was discovered today by Daniel McKinnon, a diver who was hired by Ambrose Houston, of Pawtucket, a telephone lineman, who has been making sporadic search for the body since police abandoned active search some weeks ago.

Houston said tonight he had dragged the river several times with a steel cable drawn by his automobile. A week ago Saturday he caught an obstruction where the car was found today. On Saturday last he again found the obstruction and noted oil bubbles rising to the surface, which convinced him that the automobile was in the river at that point. He then made an agreement with McKinnon to dive for further investigation today.

McKinnon, in a diver's suit, was searching the water this morning when he located the coupe in which Jones and Stewart had left their dormitory on January 31, to go to Hanover.

This afternoon the coupe with Stewart's body inside, was raised from the river. It was in 20 feet of water. Stewart sat in the driver's seat. A door of the closed car was partly open.

Police believe the car plunged into the water off the dead end of India street early on the morning of February 1. It is believed Jones' body floated with the tide to the point where it was found, about a mile and a half from the car.

Search for the students was extensive in its early stages. At one time Harvard students throughout the world were asked to aid.

GLASSFORD TAKES NEW STEP TO EVACUATE BONUS ARMY

quarters and indicated their willingness to cooperate.

Funds for the B. E. F. mess last night totaled about $1,380. Out of this fund, Gen. Glassford had intended to keep a reserve of $1,000 to cover his personal responsibility for 149 tents, 7 rolling kitchens, 6,000 bedsacks and 300 mess kits lent the bonus marchers. He announced yesterday he would waive the reserve limit and allow expenditure of the funds to the last cent.

The money on hand is not expected to last more than three days, and signs of further donations are somewhat dull, police said. The veterans were heartened last night by word received at their headquarters that two carloads of food contributed by the Farmers Holiday Association at Des Moines, Iowa, were sent on their way to Washington yesterday. Haulage costs were paid by the Woodrow Wilson Unit, American Legion Auxiliary, of New York.

The executive committee of the army last night denied reports that any parade or demonstration will be held today or tomorrow.

Canvasses of the various camps yesterday showed Walter W. Waters, who resigned as commander of the bonus legions, to be the outstanding choice of the men for formal naming as generalissimo of the permanent B. E. F. organization expected to be perfected at a convention to be held soon.

July 4 Tentatively Set.

The convention committee of the army met yesterday and set July 4 as the tentative date for the conclave. Efforts will be made, it was said, to obtain use of the Washington Auditorium for the convention.

The tentative set-up agreed upon for the convention is for the election of about 500 delegates representative of the rank and file of the bonus army. These men will be elected by individual ballot in the camps and instructed by their constituencies as to choices for leaders and policies of the army.

A statement was issued last night by the convention committee headed by W. S. Keyser, of Cleveland, setting forth the purpose of the convention and organization looking to the coordination of all veterans of wars of this nation from the Civil War onward. Such coordination, said the statement, would "promote the political, economic and social welfare of all veterans."

While the convention committee went optimistically about its plans yesterday, a number of evicted disputes arose at Camp Marks in Anacostia, where the largest number of the veterans is quartered. The commander there, Mike Thomas, is ill abed, but George Thompson, acting commander, bulking 6 feet of bone and muscle, managed to prevent any fisticuffs.

Disputes Over Leadership.

Most of the arguments concerned the leadership disputes. Waters seemed to be well favored at the Anacostia camp, although Thomas is said to be a candidate to head the bonus army. Charles R. French, head of Camp Bartlett, at Alabama avenue southeast, is also said to be a seeker for the post, although his camp has indicated sympathy for Waters.

The 450 veterans quartered in buildings on the block bounded by Twelfth, Thirteenth, B and C streets southwest heard gloomy tidings yesterday. A New York construction company asked police to have the grounds vacated so that construction of the Agriculture extension building may begin tomorrow. Gen. Glassford was making efforts to have the beginning of work postponed briefly until billets can be found for the men.

$90,000 Is Needed.

Four trucks bringing approximately 100 veterans from Brooklyn arrived yesterday and were quartered at the Anacostia camp. Three hundred more bonus seekers from Southern States were reported nearing here from the Fairfax County road.

Approximately $90,000 would be required in contributions from home communities of veterans to meet the cost of their transportation home, police said yesterday. This would include an allowance of 10 cents a day for coffee for the men and allowances for rations. The 10 cents would be given to the men, as railroad regulations prohibit the preparation of coffee in passenger cars.

The railroad proffer has been made formally by all lines operating out of Washington. It is believed that connecting carriers will fall in with the plan to move the men home.

Former German Minister Dies.

Berlin, June 26 (A.P.).—Dr. Ernst Scholz, former minister of economics and retired leader of the late Gustav Stresemann's Populist party, died today. He was 58 years old.

FATHER DUFFY DEAD; FAMED AS CHAPLAIN

Served With Fighting 69th in France; Decorated for Heroism.

New York, June 26 (A.P.).—The Rev. Francis P. Duffy, celebrated chaplain of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth," died early today of an intestinal ailment which was a consequence of the hardships he endured in his campaigning during the World War. He was 61 years old.

Father Duffy, who was pastor of Holy Cross Church, succumbed to the effects of colitis and an acute infection of the liver.

Once described by Cardinal Hayes as "the ideal army chaplain and the ideal parish priest," Father Duffy won fame and decorations from the United States and France for his devotion to his men under fire.

He was cited officially for heroism when his regiment, the 165th Infantry of the Forty-second (Rainbow) Division, crossed the Ourcq under heavy fire in a battle that lasted from July 28 to July 31. The regiment originally was known as the Sixty-ninth of the New York National Guard.

Cited Twice for Bravery.

For this display of bravery alone he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre.

"Despite constant and severe bombardment," said his citation, "with shells and aerial bombs, he continued to circulate in and about two aid stations and hospitals, creating an atmosphere of cheerfulness and confidence by his courageous and inspiring example."

In a preface to his book of experiences Father Duffy wrote:

"I am a very Irish, very Catholic, very American person if anybody challenges my convictions. * * * but, normally and let alone, I am just plain human."

Modest About Smith Aid.

He was given credit by Alfred E. Smith for supplying material for answers to theological questions raised in the church and state controversy between Smith and Charles G. Marshall in 1927, but he asserted that Smith wrote the whole reply himself.

When asked if he had prayed for Gene Tunney when the latter was knocked down in the seventh round of the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, the clergyman promptly responded that he had not, for he "thought it wasn't fair for an Irishman to have help in a fight."

Father Duffy was born at Cobourg, Ontario. He was educated at St. Michael's College, Toronto, and St. Francis Xavier College, New York. He received his theological training at St. Joseph's Seminary, Troy, N. Y., and at the Catholic University of America. He was ordained in 1896.

He served as chaplain on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917, and then went to France.

Tribute Paid Dead Veteran By Comrades

Ten years ago yesterday a plane carrying Maj. George Wallace Hamilton, of the Marines, son of Charles A. Hamilton, of 1860 California street northwest, crashed at Gettysburg. He was killed.

Ten days after that day Maj. Hamilton would have celebrated his thirtieth birthday. Ten years after that day his friends, relatives and comrades gathered around his grave in Arlington Cemetery to pay tribute to his memory.

Under yesterday afternoon's warm sunshine these men who had fought through hardships at his side, bowed their heads with emotion as Maj. Edward K. Shuler, former Lieutenant Governor of New York, who served with Maj. Hamilton in France and saw action with him in several major engagements, evoked from those years vivid pictures of the Marine.

The eyes of these soldiers shone as Rowland Mahany, Washington lawyer, read a poem of James Russel Lowell. Not only soldiers were present, but many civilian friends, including a number of members of the National Press Club.

When the words of the poem had faded a bugler sounded taps.

Instructor Killed in Plane Crash.

Hightstown, N. J., June 26 (A.P.).—Leonard Norcross, 45, was killed in an airplane crash 3 miles south of here tonight while giving a student pilot his final flying lesson. The student, William Thompson, 35, suffered a broken left arm and a possible hip fracture.

GREEN SEES THREAT OF 13,000,000 IDLE

Says Federal Aid Is Vital With Unemployment Toll Still Mounting.

(Associated Press.)

A forecast that 13,000,000 men and women will be out of work next winter if unemployment keeps increasing at its present rate was made yesterday by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

"Unemployment has been increasing this spring," he said, "at a rate unprecedented even in the two years of distress we have just been through.

"From January to May, 1932 well over 1,000,000 men and women have been thrown out of work in industry. The rate of increase this year has been considerably more than twice that of 1930 or 1931. Trade union figures for June show a still further increase.

"Our preliminary estimate of unemployment shows at least 10,800,000 out of work in May. Trade union figures for the first part of June show the largest increase this year. Applying them to industry generally would indicate that at least 200,000 more have been thrown out of work since May.

"Farm work has provided some jobs, but unquestionably the number now out of work is nearly 11,000,000.

"The report for cities shows unemployment increasing in 15 of our 24 reporting cities, Detroit and Cleveland report the highest unemployment, while New York, Paterson, Chicago, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia follow closely. The month has brought serious increases in Denver, Baltimore, St. Louis and San Antonio."

The only source to which the unemployed can look for jobs, Green said, is the Federal Government, which "should take hold of the situation and set up the methods and the means for providing citizens with opportunities to earn bread, shelter and heat."

CHURCHMEN PRAISE HOOVER ARMS PLAN

Proposal for Cut Described as "Highly Prophetic" by Council.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 26.—The highest officials of nearly a score of national church bodies joined today in a message to President Hoover, expressing "most hearty approval" of his "courageous proposal" for the reduction of armaments. The church leaders described the proposal as "highly prophetic" and expressed the judgment that the President's "constructive leadership" will be enthusiastically welcomed by the members of all the churches.

The message addressed to President Hoover was as follows:

"Your courageous proposal to the World Disarmament Conference that the nations reduce their armaments by one-third meets with our most hearty approval. We rejoice in your broad-visioned leadership in a matter which bears such vital relations to peace and human welfare. Your proposal to the conference we regard as a highly prophetic note in international relations.

Praise for Leadership.

"We believe that the great body of the membership in our churches will enthusiastically welcome your constructive leadership and will hope that its general acceptance may herald the opening of a great epoch in our world life.

"We are particularly pleased to note the primary emphasis your place on the Kellogg-Briand pact. We believe that the pledges given by the nations in Articles I and II of this pact should be continuously stressed as a basic world policy and that international procedures should be constantly shaped in the light of these pledges and principles.

"While we are expressing only our personal convictions and satisfaction, they are, we believe, in harmony with those of our church bodies, most of which have officially expressed their desires for drastic reduction in armaments by all nations."

The statement was sent out from the office of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and was made public by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the council.

The signatures to the joint statement are as follows:

Three Children Missing After Bridge Falls Under Wagon.

Chickasha, Okla., June 26 (A.P.).—Flood waters claimed at least three lives in south central Oklahoma tonight and three small children were reported missing. Rainfall was heavy. Thomas H. Wade, 25, a highway worker, perished when he drove his motor car off a washed-out bridge approach on Sandy Creek.

Two women drowned in Rush Creek with the collapse of a small bridge under the weight of a heavy farm wagon. The telephone operator at Knoxville identified the victims, members of a party of thirteen returning home from church services, as Mrs. Calvin Lindsay and Mrs. John Lindsay, sisters-in-law.

Their bodies were recovered. The creek was searched for Mrs. John Lindsay's three children, Mary Ruth, 1; J. D., 3, and Gene Lindsay, 4. The Canadian River was high, but not dangerous, at Oklahoma City, where seven persons drowned in recent floods.

THE BACK-TO-THE-FARM MOVEMENT.

HENRY FORD says the solution to the country's troubles is to have every man operate a farm on the side. He talks as if he considered farming merely a wrist motion.

* * * *

"No unemployment insurance can compare with the alliance between man and a plot of land," says the Sage of Dearborn. "A farm will tide us through any dislocation of economic conditions."

* * * *

Evidently Henry thinks nothing will keep the wolf from the door like green vegetables.

* * * *

Little Red Riding Hood might have weathered the storm if she had carried spinach.

* * * *

"The land! That is where the roots are," continues Mr. Ford. "The land has not shrunk. It is there waiting for us all."

* * * *

It sounds pretty, but evidently Henry has never watched a city fellow trying to milk a cow. He could hardly press that farm-for-every-man idea if he had ever halted his flivver in front of a farm long enough to observe a plumber's helper pick tomatoes or feasted his eyes on the spectacle of a stranded paperhanger trying to be helpful during the haying season.

* * * *

"With one foot on industry and another foot on the farm," says Henry, "human society is firmly balanced against economic uncertainties." Still, most people would hate to have to depend for their vegetables on a man in such an uncomfortable position.

* * * *

With one foot in the office and the other foot on a farm, a man might fool the office workers, but the cows, pigs and chickens would know something was wrong with the picture.

* * * *

Any body who has ever run a farm (even with a deficit) will tell Henry that you have to have both feet at the scene of operations. Even feeding the hens is no job for a one-legged man.

* * * *

THE Detroit miracle man says America made its original big mistake when it went off the vegetable and fresh egg standard. If the people had stuck to the farms we would have no crisis. There may be something in what he says, but he would be surprised to know how many farmers had a stock ticker in the cow shed and a chart of stock market movements in every corn row. Even the hired man held a Wall Street Journal in one hand while he trained the cucumber vines with the other, and many a tomato rotted on the ground because the harvester had a hurry call to town to put up more margin.

* * * *

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

IT'S TIME TO BE BEAUTIFYING ARMS.

A CONSTANT reader writes: "You said recently that many women leave their legs in cold storage, so to speak, during the winter months and get a jolt when their bathing suits reveal flaws. Well, I'm one of those cold storage victims—but it's my arms. I've let them lose their fresh color and satiny quality during the long sleeve winter months. And now that spring has come with a rush and the warm days fill the shop windows with dainty sleeveless dresses, I suddenly realize that my arms don't match those dresses (nor my face, for that matter). What to do, Miss Pierce?"

* * * *

Many women are suddenly realizing that their arms have acquired a slightly goose flesh effect. Or a flabbiness. Or too much fat. Or too much hair. Or, the girl who sits at a desk all day commences to work frantically to remove the slight muddy streak from wrist to elbow, and if she has the habit of leaning on her elbow perhaps there is also a decided yellow, thickened skin condition of the elbow.

Bare Arms No Embarrassment.

So, to arms, miladies, and let your sleeveless dresses and bathing suits reveal beauty, not embarrassment. The treatment is practically the same for all arm improvements. Cleanse, stimulate and nourish the parts you wish to improve. Commence with a layer of cleansing cream. Remove with tissues. Then wash and lather with mild soap and hot water. The arm can stand more soap and warmer water than ever used on the face. Rinse with warm water. And while the flesh is warm and glowing pat in nourishing cream, vigorously. Concentrate on the elbow and on the discolored streak from elbow to wrist. Leave this nourishing cream on for fifteen minutes or longer if convenient and if the arms are rough, elbows callous or hardened, arms scrawny or covered with gooseflesh, leave the cream overnight (if you are giving yourself the treatment at bedtime). When the cream has been absorbed, or the next morning if you are leaving it overnight, use a pad of cotton soaked in astringent and pat very briskly. Use energy in patting, in order to stimulate the circulation. There are many good astringents on the market, but an inexpensive homemade one is a pint bottle of witch hazel to which has been added enough simple tincture of benzoin to make a milk white liquid, perhaps two teaspoonfuls of the benzoin. It may be mixed in the bottle and will keep indefinitely. It is slightly bleaching.

If the arms need further bleaching, you may either buy a good bleaching cream or use the old reliable standby; one part water, one part peroxide of hydrogen and one part ammonia. This also bleaches dark growths of hair. After the bleach has dried, a film of nourishing cream should be applied to the area to counteract the searing effect of the ammonia and peroxide. Always be careful not to get the bleaching preparation near or in the eyes.

Scrawny arms and fat arms merely require different degrees of the treatment outlined above, more vigorous exercise and more astringent for the fat or flabby arms, and more nourishing cream for the thin arm. Nourishing cream and frequent warm olive oil soakings are good for scrawny elbows inclined to callous.

If you wish special arm exercises and reducing or rounding suggestions send self-addressed, stamped envelope and state whether you wish to reduce fat arms, or round out thin arms.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Delightfully chic summer frock of red crepe marocain, with tiny bow tie and under cuffs of the short sleeves in white pique. (Courtesy of the Maison Heim, Paris.)

NEW YORK, June 26.—Miladi and her frills and feathers!

Specially her feathers, this year. For feathers are all new and different now, and the mode is all cut up about it. Really—because it is the feathers that are cut up—and woven into woolens!

Of course, there are degrees of feathers woven into the woolens—the more woolen the less feather, and the more feathers the higher the price. And these feather woolens, for fall, of course, are as elegant and supple as you can imagine they would be—one can hardly resist them! In fact, the couturieres, I have it on the very best authority, have not resisted them—and we can expect to see woolen fabrics woven with feathers in the most elegant models of the August collections.

Speaking of hard times (or were we!) I find it interesting to know that fabrics for fall are more often than not of the higher priced variety. We seem to be back to the $8 and $12 a yard materials, especially in coat and suit fabrics. Which must mean something, dont you think? I do! These feather woolens are only a part of the high-priced fall fabric story, my deahs—so start saving the pennies!

* * * *

Good news! The wider width fabrics are easier to find now! Some silks and velvets are 60 and 54 inches wide, and even chiffons and heavy crepes can be found in these widths now. The manufacturers tried this out last fall, and finding it successful, are making materials in these wider widths for the coming season on a much larger scale.

* * * *

A little more—or a little less—what does it really matter! Sh-h-h-h, dahr-lings, let's not get THATTY! Because just the little more or the little less DOES matter—say, on the end of your nose. Or when it comes to what makes chic and what is just—a nice idea.

Take a be-e-e-e-e-g organdy handkerchief, or a square if you would rather call it that, all hand hemmed; then have it pleated; then have the crown of your summer hat of the same pleated white organdy; then tie the 'kerchief around your throat. And what have you? Chic! See for yourself in the little sketch.

* * * *

There are the loveliest cotton materials nowadays! Why, some of them are so fine and some so 'spensive that they put their silken sisters to shame! So when you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet which tells you how to make some delightful summer nighties out of cotton materials—remember that you and several other elegantes are wearing cotton nightgowns, hand-made and luxuriously cool, this summer. 'Course the design will do in georgette or silk, if you insist—but I like the cotton ones best for summer—maybe you will, too, if you try them.

* * * *

Haim tailored chic shows again in the frock I sketch for you today—red as red, this one, and in summer marocain—and with a tie and little under cuffs of white pique! How's that for a refreshing idea—and for a frock that would do as well in town as 'twould on the boardwalk at any resort?

Strawberry Shortcake With French Biscuit Dough.

3 cupfuls sifted pastry flour
6 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 teaspoonful salt
3 tablespoonfuls sugar
6 tablespoonfuls shortening
2 eggs or 4 egg yolks, beaten until very light
Thin cream, as needed

Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into a bowl. Add the butter and chop until mealy. Add the eggs and sufficient cream to make a soft dough. Pat or roll the dough to about one-third inch in thickness. Cut with a floured cutter. Spread the tops of half the rounds with softened butter. Cover with the remaining rounds. Brush with milk and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 30 minutes. Split carefully and fill with crushed fruit, to which a little sugar has been added. Garnish with whipped cream and berries.

And now a menu which we must plan around the remains of the roast duck which graced our table yesterday.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height, and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: Almost a year ago you sent me your chart for gaining weight. I was 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighed 116 pounds. At present I am age 20 and weigh 136 pounds. Must I keep on gaining, which I'm afraid I can't do, for it's so hard to eat in the summer time, or do I weigh enough? I want to keep my good figure for my vacation, after working so hard all winter to get it.

Many thanks. JEANETTE.

Very well done, Jeanette, you deserve and you shall have our congratulations and our best wishes—the very finest we have to offer. Next to reducing to one's normal weight, the slow climb upward to health and vitality is most difficult. It takes so long to firmly establish a foothold on the first rung of the ladder. It takes such patience and persistence to require the strength necessary to keep climbing and to avoid the possibility of discouragement and its consequent relapse into old habits. You've scaled the ladder, Jeanette, you're at the top and you're going to stay there, I am sure.

Don't try to gain any more, but don't stop eating the foods which have helped you so much. You, yourself, will be best able to judge how much food you will need to maintain your present weight. It should not be necessary to count calories, so long as you watch the scales and note carefully any great variation one way or the other. Should you find yourself losing, take more butter, cream, sauces, &c. And if you should gain, although there is not much possibility of that, restrict these same foods as necessary.

During the hot summer months eat generously of fruits, vegetables and salads. They are cooling and healthful and attractive. We need attractive foods, in hot weather especially, to tempt our flagging appetites and spirits—something crisp and colorful as well as nutritious. But we need some hot foods, too, if it be only one hot vegetable or a hot beverage at each meal.

Let me know how you get along. Don't run any risk of losing your precious figure and if you should have any difficulty, write and tell us about it. We have been known to help, you know!

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

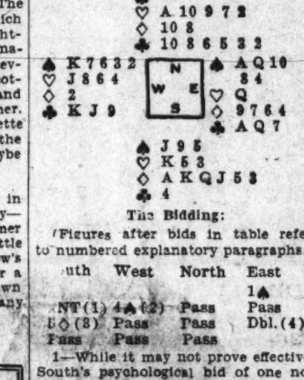
358.

PLOT AND COUNTERPLOT.

IT is axiomatic with all military authorities that defense eventually counterbalances attack. As soon as a new weapon of warfare is devised, no matter how deadly it may be, scientists and engineers immediately set to work to find some means of coping with the new menace. Bridge, in its structure, bears a close analogy to war. The cards are the pasteboard armies. The players who hold them are the staff and commanders. So it is interesting in a game to watch the counterplay of attack and defense.

It was particularly interesting both in the bidding and play of the hand below, which I saw played in a Rubber game in a New York Bridge club recently.

East—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1NT (1)	4♠ (2)	Pass	1♠ Pass
5◇ (3)	Pass	Pass	Dbl. (4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—While it may not prove effective, South's psychological bid of one no-trump can do no harm. Possibly it may obscure the hand patterns, so far as the opponents are concerned. He has a reasonably safe escape in bidding diamonds, if that course later seems advisable.

2—West stretches his holding to bid four spades, but, holding five trumps and barely ½ honor-trick short of an immediate Jump to game, he decides to bare South's psychological bid to his partner at once.

3—South now is between the well-known devil and the equally well-known deep blue sea. He elects to take a plunge into the salty waters, unaware of exactly how it will turn out.

4—As South fears and hopes.

West pauses for some time before passing the Penalty Double, but anticipating that South had ventured far beyond the trick-taking possibilities of his hand, he elected to let the Double stand, and opened his fourth best spade. This was ruffed in the Dummy, and South then took stock of the situation.

Obviously, to play the hand to ruff out two spades must result in a set of 1 trick, but South thought he could see another way of playing the hand, which, if the fates were kind, might give him his contract. Therefore, after winning the first trick with a trump in Dummy, a small heart was led. Trouble appeared in the offing when East played the Queen, which seemingly was marked as a singleton. If this were true, however, the situation was desperate in any event, and South decided not to let it interfere with his plan of play. He let East hold the trick, hoping for the return of a trump. East however, had other plans in mind, and knowing his partner could read his play of the Queen as a singleton, now underled the Ace-Queen-seven of clubs. South was forced to follow suit. West won and returned a heart, which East trumped. East now led another club, but South put a stop to these tactics by ruffing and drawing the adverse trumps. South, however, suffered a penalty of 100 points, which was counterbalanced by his honors, and far more than offset in the subsequent postmortem by the revelation of the fact that East and West could have made five spades, and were only able to defeat South's five diamond contract through eminently accurate defensive tactics.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Bridge is mimic warfare, and the maneuver for position between the contending forces bears a close analogy to the tactics of contending generals. Attack and defense, when the forces are well-nigh equal, furnish many opportunities for fine strategy.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DERCUM'S DISEASE.

A SEEKER after knowledge wants to know about Dercum's disease, its cause and treatment; whether it is advisable to have the lumps removed, especially if they become sore and painful; what part is played by the thyroid gland in causing it, and what can be expected by a person who has it.

This disease bears the name of a distinguished Philadelphia physician, who practiced his profession until very recently. The honor of describing it was reserved for a modern physician because of the rareness of this disorder, rather than its recent origin, and also because it is so unlike any other disorder of which we know in its workings.

It is called a disorder rather than a disease, for while it is associated with pain and lack of ease, it does not behave like those behaviors that go by the name disease.

A person who has Dercum's disease has numerous soft, rounded tumors in many different parts of the body. These tumors are unlike most in that they do not stand out like hills or mountains, but rather have the appearance of local swellings. They are unlike inflammatory swellings in that they are not red, inflamed, tender, sore or painful. Yet one name for them is adiposis dolorosa, the second word indicating that they are painful. However, the pain is in nearby nerves.

It is something of a chronic neuralgia and it is associated with the tumor rather than being in it and of it. We might call it a chronic neuralgia associated with multiple tumors. The first word indicates that the tumor is composed of fat, and so it is, though it differs slightly from ordinary fat. Like all fatty tumors, those of Dercum's disease are benign, having no tendency to destroy tissues or to shorten life.

If the tumor were so located as to be very much in the way or to be sore, removing it should be considered, but removal for the purpose of stopping the neuralgic pain is apt to prove disappointing.

As a rule, there are many of these tumors and removal of all of them would be something of a wholesale proposition. The disease develops mostly in women of middle age and beyond and has no relationship to obesity.

If a person with Dercum's disease reduces he makes the tumor stand out more prominently, since lessening of the fat under the skin is not accompanied by any loss of fat from the tumor tissues. When a camel becomes very thin his hump flops around like a bag of empty skin, but, under like circumstances, these fatty tumors on man remain unchanged.

Nobody knows what causes this trouble. However, it is apt to develop in women of the myxedema type and age. It is accompanied by dry skin and coarse hair and the thyroid is not exactly right. For these reasons the cause of Dercum's disease is supposed to lie in the thyroid gland. This suggests that when a cure is found it will consist in some kind of thyroid treatment. Since the disease is rare, there are but few opportunities to try cures, therefore progress in that direct way will be slow.

YELLOW JAUNDICE.

Miss S. H. H. writes:

What are the causes of yellow jaundice?

What are the symptoms?

Is it contagious?

Can it be cured?

What is the cure?

REPLY.

Jaundice is a symptom and the answer to your questions depends on the disease causing it. Among them are cancer, gall stones, cirrhosis of the liver, infections of the bile ducts, yellow fever and malaria. Yellow fever, malaria and infective jaundice, or Weil's disease are contagious in certain senses. The others are not.

SALT LAKE A GOOD PLACE.

W. C. H. writes: What are the effects of climate upon a sinus condition? It seems to be the general belief that a high altitude and low humidity climate is good for sinus. I am trying to find such a place where there are commercial opportunities for myself—advertising or selling. I have in mind Salt Lake City, where the elevation is said to be around 4,000 feet, against Chicago's 600 feet, and a humidity of 52, as against Chicago's 74.

REPLY.

The climate cure for sinus trouble is about the best we have. The climate at Salt Lake City is a good one.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

CANCER.

IF June 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 to 10 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:45 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:20. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:35 p. m.

Nothing of very special import is augured for June 27, especially in the material or mental planes of existence. Although events will occur which will prove to be important connecting links with some future factors in your life, they will not stand out as independent units of interest at this time. A frivolous mood should bring merriment to the evening hours.

The child born on this June 27 will be a resourceful, self-amusing little individual. If a boy, mechanical toys will prove of interest to its creative hands and mind. If a girl, it will exhibit artistic tastes and will be handy with needle or along culinary lines of endeavor. It will not be a good mixer.

Born on June 27, it is difficult for you to settle down to the business of living on this mundane plane of existence in a very restful or comfortable fashion. You do not know how to protect yourself from the inevitable jars to mind and nerves to which the average human is subject. You have acquired for yourself few cushions of philosophy upon which to land when there are upsets and smashes.

You aim to be fair and straight with everybody, and your business and moral integrity is of the highest. You do your share of grousing, but you never try to sneak out of a debt or responsibility which you feel to be rightfully yours. It makes you furious, however, to have any one try to "put one over" on you, but you are too wide-awake for this to be often done.

Your arm's length attitude toward people does not give you a magnetic or warm personality. You command admiration, respect and obedience more than you stir the softer emotions of love. You would find the world more sympathetic, if you had less of an air of independence. You are not slow to see a joke, although you possess little jolly school-boy humor yourself. It is very easy for sarcasm to creep into your speech, especially when you are annoyed.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Mother Rebels.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I am not a "wife of tomorrow;" on the contrary, I am just an old-fashioned mother and long-time widow. But with your experience of the male of the species perhaps you can advise me how to treat my particular problem, for we all have them, don't we?

I am an old lady of 75 and have raised a large family of children, all but one of whom have their own homes and take care of themselves. My youngest son lives with me. He went to France with the A. E. F. in 1917 and returned after the war, bringing a French wife. Naturally I invited them to stay with me until they got settled and he found a job. Well, they've been here ever since and, as the little money they had at first has been dissipated, I now support them entirely. I am fortunate in having a comfortable income, but the drains on it are becoming increasingly great each year, and my house is no longer run for my comfort or convenience. It is a small house and I have but one guest room. Formerly I used to enjoy having my old friends visit me, but now I have no room for them. Since my health has failed and I am confined to my room, my son and his wife give dinners and card parties and run the house to suit themselves while I pay the bills. My son has long since ceased making a pretense of looking for work. He is content to sit around, have his breakfast in bed and assume the air of master of the house to his brothers and sisters when they come to see me, which they resent. They say I ought to put him out, but I am old and don't like rows, though I would like to be able to do more for my other children and my grandchildren—which I am prevented from doing because it costs so much to keep my son and his wife. They are not unkind to me, but I have sense enough to know that they know on which side their bread is buttered.

Can you suggest any way of getting rid of them. Without scandal, of course. My son is perfectly able to work, but he has always been lazy, and I feel that it might appear unmotherly and hard-hearted if I deliberately told them they must go. I have often read in your column of parents who demanded too much of their children and were selfish and inconsiderate, but what about children who are parasites on elderly parents? Is there anything in the law that requires me to support a middle-aged son and his wife? Am I morally called upon to do this until I die? Do you think I am lacking in maternal feeling in wanting to rid myself of this situation?

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER.

Far from "lacking maternal feeling," you are being imposed upon most shamefully because of your maternal weakness. It is your duty to give your son six months' notice to vacate. That will give him opportunity to make what plans he may for his future. The present situation is undermining what little manhood he has. So act, without rancor, but with unmistakable firmness. It may make a man of him. At present he is a disgrace.

Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ROSES AT THIS TIME.

THROUGHOUT the summer the surface of the soil of a rose bed should be cultivated weekly. If this is done water will rarely be necessary. It is a good thing to cover the beds with about three inches of strawy manure or tobacco stems. This keeps the bed cool and prevents evaporation of the moisture and eliminates much of the cultivation I have just mentioned. Some growers cover their beds with about two inches of peat moss. This is a nonconductor of heat and cold and will not only keep the moisture in the ground by protecting it from the sun's rays, but will also greatly reduce the actual temperature of the bed. Your hybrid teas are now in full bloom. This is the time to continue vigilance for insects, mildew and blackspot.

If you have not done so before, be sure at this time to stir into the ground around each plant a trowelful of half bonemeal and half powdered sheep manure.

July 1, according to the rosetan's calendar, is the time to dust the hybrid teas and hybrid perpetuals, which are decreasing in the number of flowers they are producing, with sulphur-arsenate of lead dust. This is a dust composed of nine parts dusting sulphur and one part of lead arsenate.

By July 10 the rose bugs are usually gone. But you must continue dusting for mildew and blackspot. You must go over your plants each day. Burn all fallen leaves. It is also well, especially in cases where you have not applied a mulch of peat moss, tobacco stems or manure, to keep the ground thoroughly cultivated.

Do not neglect to prune your climbing roses as soon as they have finished blooming. Pruning at this time prevents the seed formation and also makes the plants more sightly and induces development of blooming wood. When pruning these plants cut out such long canes as have produced the masses of bloom.

Double of Harold Lloyd Hunted as Store Holdup

Seattle, June 26 (A.P.).—Seattle will be a good place for Harold Lloyd, film comedian, to avoid for a few days.

"Arrest any man bearing a striking resemblance to Harold Lloyd" was the order passed on to patrolmen by Charles Tennant, chief of detectives.

Saturday a lone robber held up the cashier of a 10-cent store here escaping with $1,082. He was a fast worker and the only description obtained was that he bore a striking resemblance to the actor in character makeup.

Mysterious Mine Blasts Continue

Explosions in Shaft Kill One and Injure Ten; Imperil Large Area.

Benton, Ill., June 26 (A.P.).—Underground explosions in an abandoned mine near here, in which one man was killed and ten were injured last night, continued today, although no casualties were reported.

Following the death of Bernard Kelley, 35, of West Frankfort, attempts to seal the 600-foot mine shaft from which flames had been shooting since the first of the series of explosions, were abandoned. The inferno was causing the walls of the shafts to crumble. Apprehension was was being felt by citizens who feared a large area about the mine might cave in.

Kelley met death instantly when a huge timber was hurled through the air by one of the explosions last night. Howard Lewis, manager of Mine No. 14 at Buckner and a brother of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, was one of the injured.

VON PAPEN ADJURES HITLER TO STOP RIOT

Appeal to Fascist Leader Follows 4 More Deaths in Political Fights.

Berlin, June 26 (A.P.).—A personal appeal that Adolf Hitler restrain his brown-shirted National Socialists for the sake of Germany's negotiations at the Lausanne reparations conference, was reported made today by Chancellor Franz von Papen as political clashes took four more lives in the Reich.

A secret meeting of the chancellor with the German Fascist leader in the presence of Kurt von Schleicher, defense minister, and Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, minister of interior, was reported from various sources.

While the fact of the meeting was officially denied, it was reliably reported the chancellor adjured Hitler to take his uniformed followers off the streets, as constant fighting had undermined the German government's negotiations at the Lausanne conference.

Whether the fiery Hitler agreed to the supposed proposal was not divulged.

Alfred Hugenberg, at a caucus of German Nationalist party leaders, openly stated today that his party favored a restoration of the monarchy.

A National Socialist was killed today at Wattenscheid, an anti-Fascist leader was shot dead at Landsberg, a Reichbanner man was riddled by National Socialist and Communist bullets at Russdorf and a member of the Steel Helmet organization in Cologne died of injuries received in fighting last week.

Seven persons were seriously wounded in the clash at Russdorf, which is near Limbach.

Steel Helmet members and Communists clashed at Esseleben, where many were injured and 100 arrested.

A number of women took an active part in a Nazi-Communist melee at Castrop-Rauxel. Four Nazis were taken to a hospital.

One Nazi was gravely injured at Essen. Minor skirmishes occurred at Dusseldorf and Chemnitz.

Man Shoots His Wife; Is Killed by Policeman

Oakland, Calif., June 26 (A.P.).—A policeman shot and killed Andrew Schafer, of San Francisco, today an instant after Schafer had shot his wife, Frances, in the back, inflicting a flesh wound. The double shooting occurred in the home of Mrs. Violet de Villiers, Mrs. Schafer's sister, with whom Mrs. Schafer went to live six weeks ago when she left her husband.

Schafer went to the dwelling and threatened to kill his wife unless she returned to him. Confronted by police, his pistol missed fire repeatedly as he pulled the trigger. One cartridge exploded when he turned the weapon on his wife. She was not seriously injured.

Calles Permitted To See Ill Wife

Members of General's Party Say Her Condition Is Still Critical.

Boston, June 26 (A.P.).—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico, today for the first time since Friday was allowed to see his wife, Senora Leonor Fiorente Calles, critically ill since the removal of a tumor from her brain last Thursday. The condition of the 26-year-old senora was improving, according to word received from the Calles party at their hotel.

Since last Friday the general had not been given permission to visit the bedside of his wife because of the seriousness of her condition. All day Saturday his automobile waited outside the Calles hotel for word from Dr. Harvey Cushing, brain specialist, who performed the operation, but no word came until today.

Although the general was permitted to visit his wife, members of the ambassadorial party at the hotel were agreed that Senora Calles was in an exceedingly critical condition and that several days still might elapse before it could be said she successfully withstood the operation.

LIMITED MONARCHY FORMED IN SIAM

King Retains Throne Under Curtailed Powers; People Draft Constitution.

Bangkok, Siam, June 26 (A.P.).—A new Siam with a constitution and a political party was born today of last week's revolution and King Prajadhipok remained as the monarch.

But by a proclamation signed with his own hand, his powers are no longer absolute, for he legalized all the acts of the peoples party, under whose banner the revolutionists took over the power Friday. He also accepted their plan of a constitution, after which he was proclaimed king again.

Immediately the king began reading and studying an actual draft of a proposed constitution and promised further announcements about the program tomorrow.

Accompanied by Prince Suasti, Prince Purchatra, and Prince Alongkut, the king arrived before dawn today from Huanin, where he had been spending a vacation.

Prince Alongkut, formerly vice minister of war, left the train at the public railway station and was immediately arrested by the provisional government and taken to the throne hall of one of the palaces and placed with other princes who had been taken into custody when the revolt occurred.

Prince Purachatra, the minister of commerce, who fled to Huahin to inform the king of the coup d'etat, and Prince Suasti, continued with their ruler to the Royal Chitra Ladda Station. They were not arrested.

Meanwhile it is generally expected the new constitution will provide some form of franchise for the people retaining the king under a limited monarchical form of government. The city was quiet last night and today.

The right BLEND . . the right BALANCE

A "balanced" blend . . . the right Domestic and Turkish tobaccos in the right amounts . . . blended in a different way . . . "welded" together.

That's the Chesterfield Cross-Blend . . . an important reason why Chesterfields are milder and taste better.

It isn't just taking the tobaccos and mixing them hit-or-miss.

The Chesterfield Cross-Blend makes one type or one variety of tobacco partake of the qualities of another. It "welds" together all that is best in each variety.

It's a balanced blend in the truest sense . . . giving you what really amounts to a new kind of tobacco . . . Chesterfield tobacco . . . milder, more fragrant, better-tasting.

that's why Chesterfields TASTE BETTER

GARNER'S PORK-BARREL.

Speaker Garner, begetter of the biggest pork barrel in the history of the world, gives out this defense:

> We loan the shipping interests many millions of dollars at a very low rate of interest, and it's all right; when we try to do something for all the people, it's "pork barrel." To serve special interests is statesmanship; to serve the people is pork.

Speaker Garner conveniently forgets to mention the fact that President Hoover has already intimated that he will favor the legislation providing $1,500,000,000 for relief through the Reconstruction Corporation, and $300,000,000 to be loaned to States which lack means of relieving unemployment. There is no serving of "special interests" in that program.

It is only the pork-barrel feature of the Garner bill that is opposed by the President and the people. They oppose it because the country can not afford to squander money at this time. They are looking for ways to provide jobs for the unemployed, and not for ways to help members of Congress to curry favor with constituents by dispensing public money for works that would be useless and unnecessary, and which would provide the smallest number of jobs at the greatest possible expense.

The Garner pork-barrel provision would commit the Government to let contracts and undertake unproductive public works to the extent of $1,200,000,000 or $1,300,000,000. The scheme is gigantic. Lands would have to be acquired, legal obstacles removed, engineering and architectural designs drawn, and contracts drawn up and awarded before jobs would be available; and then the total number of jobs available during the period when they will be most needed would be less than 100,000. Thus Mr. Garner proposes to spend $12,000 each for ordinary jobs on superfluous public works.

The distribution of these jobs reveals the pork-barrel character of the program. Mr. Garner and his Southern friends would get most of the pork. The bulk of unemployment in this country is in towns and cities. If there are between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 men out of work, as is claimed by the American Federation of Labor, the distribution of jobs under the Garner pork-barrel scheme would be as follows, apportioned according to town populations:

In the Northeastern States, work for 350 men out of each 100,000 unemployed:

In the Southern States, work for 2,280 men out of each 100,000 unemployed;

In the Midwestern States, work for 640 men out of each 100,000 unemployed;

In the Western States, work for 1,350 men out of each 100,000 unemployed.

Direct employment of 100,000 men would probably provide indirectly for 200,000 more.

There would remain over 9,000,000 unemployed.

Senator Moses proposed that the selection of localities in which public works should be undertaken should be left to a committee composed of the Chief of Engineers, the Supervising Architect and the Director of Federal Stabilization, so that work could be created first at points where unemployment distress is most acute. But this proposal was voted down, because it would interfere with the distribution of pork where congressional distress is most acute.

The Garner pork-barrel provision is a relief measure for congressmen, and not for jobless men. It is an attempt to divert $1,200,000,000 to political advantage, under the guise of relieving public distress.

One item in the Garner pork-barrel scheme calls for an expenditure of $95,000 for a quarantine station in the Virgin Islands. The Interior Department, having jurisdiction over the islands, was not consulted, and it did not ask for such a station. It now develops that the Navy, which until recently had jurisdiction over the Virgin Islands, did build a quarantine station, but it proved to be unnecessary, and so the building was transformed into a school. Now Mr. Garner proposes to spend $95,000 for another station, it having been demonstrated that no station is necessary.

The Senate Democrats are not averse to a little pork, say $500,000,000 worth, judiciously distributed where senatorial unemployment is acute or threatened; but not even the Senate can stomach the $1,200,000,000 of pork which Speaker Garner would furnish at the taxpayers' expense.

For many years the practice of distributing pork among congressmen has been condemned, but the public did not revolt, perhaps because the stealings were small and times were good. But now, when Speaker Garner attempts under false pretenses to put through the most gigantic pork-barrel scheme ever dreamed of, at a time when the people are under the harrow of debt and taxes, there is revolt.

It may be that history will record that Speaker Garner unwittingly performed a public service by proposing a pork-barrel raid so monstrous that the public in their wrath put an end to the system once for all.

STARVING THE FARM BOARD.

The Senate ran amuck in considering the independent offices appropriation bill on Saturday. Without any apparent reason, the allotment to the Farm Board was slashed from $1,000,000 down to $600,000. Estimates for the board had already been trimmed down to the minimum by the President and the House.

If the Senate believes that the Farm Board is not performing a useful service, why doesn't it abolish the board? The Senate doesn't have the courage to do that. Yet it cuts the appropriation almost in half, leaving only a skeleton of the organization that is necessary to carry on the work. This arrangement will destroy the usefulness of the board and yet cost $600,000.

The Senate has just voted to squander $500,000,000 for pork under the pretext of providing jobs for the unemployed. Yet it adds to the total of the unemployed by cutting off Government employes who are performing work ordered by Congress. It is this false economy that provokes the disgust of citizens and taxpayers.

The conference committee can restore an element of practical common sense to the Farm Board appropriation. The board should either be abolished or be provided with the means for functioning.

REVOLT IN SIAM.

Americans feel a personal interest in the Siamese revolution because of the prolonged visit to this country last year of King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambaibarni. Although King Prajadhipok was one of the two remaining absolute monarchs in the world, he has never been a despot. Apparently there is no dissatisfaction with the king himself, but only with the economic conditions in which the country has found itself.

When King Prajadhipok was in the United States he outlined plans for extending the suffrage of his people. They were to be granted authority to choose their local officials, as a means of educating them to greater political responsibility. Those plans seem to have been completely upset by the military revolution which has fastened its grip upon the little country. The present revolt is an uprising of the army and naval forces, and not a popular revolution. It would be unfortunate indeed if this military group should plunge the little monarchy into turmoil to save the people from the benevolence of the king. Siam may learn to its sorrow that economic conditions can not be improved by transferring power to a military junta.

A SOCIALISTIC LAMENT.

Another tiresome appeal for the American people "to take the lead in repairing the broken world" went out to the public Monday night from the glib tongue of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. With the typical impatience of a schoolmaster, he ranted and denounced as "childish" all who do not subscribe to his magic formulas. There is no cure for the depression save his patented international remedy.

In the beginning of his address Dr. Butler attempted to show how all nations are economically interdependent. Tea and coffee must be imported, he said, because they are not produced in the United States. Some types of hides and leather goods can be obtained only from abroad. Can Dr. Butler be unaware of the fact that tea and coffee now come in free of duty, and that every other product not produced here is imported duty free? Only products which the American people can produce for themselves are protected by the tariff. This being true, the only argument for slashing the American tariff is to allow foreign labor to supply a larger percentage of American needs.

Dr. Butler was no less fallacious in his reference to the intergovernmental debts. He admits that the debts are honest obligations and ought to be paid. Why, then, is he a cancellationist? Because of his deep intellectual conviction that by assuming the burdens of the World War the United States would cast a fanciful glamor of prosperity over the world. Europe pleads poverty on the debts, and yet pays out billions in anticipation of another war. American citizens are asked to forget all that. Dr. Butler needs to go only a step further to advocate that, whenever there is a war, the nation most capable of paying for it should be assessed with the costs, regardless of any responsibility therefor, so that the equilibrium of the world may not be upset.

Apparently Dr. Butler is not able to perceive that he is sponsoring socialism of the most distasteful variety. He might just as consistently argue that all private debts be wiped out because they diminish the purchasing power of the debtor class and thus interfere with prosperity. It is shocking to hear an idealist, even of the international variety, asking the people to sacrifice everything on the altar of commercialism. The Butler scheme of paying for wars on a socialistic basis would probably be more damaging to world peace than any other action that could be taken. How can he justify his subordination of world peace to economic expediency?

The idea that socialism among nations would suddenly cause hard times to vanish is the baldest piece of nonsense that is currently preached to the American people. Such a movement could have only one result—to sap the vitality of the United States for the sustenance of other nations that have wasted their substance in war and armaments. Dr. Butler ought to realize that he wastes his words on socialistic doctrines in America, whether he applies them to men or nations.

It's dangerous for autocratic rulers to visit the United States. Julio Prestes, president-elect of Brazil, was feted in Washington and then was knocked out of office, and now King Prajadhipok of Siam, a recent visitor, has his absolutism trimmed off by insurgents.

Senator Brookhart can confer a great favor upon the country by following Ruth Bryan Owen's example and quitting at the end of this session. He voted for the lame duck amendment. Be a sport, Wildman!

Senator Logan, of Kentucky, has said that he has no desire to remain in Congress. If Huey Long would only say that, or the voters of Louisiana for him!

It must be a source of great distress to Senator Norris to realize that he can't help Gov. Roosevelt abolish the two-thirds rule.

Maybe it's because they foresee their own unemployment that so many members of Congress are laying in pork.

In view of recent achievements on Capitol Hill it is quite appropriate to say that Congress has gone hog wild.

The Geneva disarmament conference views with alarm the Hoover plan to reduce armaments.

Nick Butler thinks people have forgotten that he once ran for Vice President—and they have.

SNAKES OF PANAMA

From the New York Herald-Tribune.

The news from Panama that a two-headed fer-de-lance has been caught near the capital city convinces one that nature is really overdoing it. For though the fer-de-lance shares with several other serpents the name "twenty-minute snake"—so promptly effective is their venom—it excels them all in ferundity and has no need for a spare head. Raymond L. Ditmars found that the number of young in a litter might exceed seventy; they are a foot or more long at birth and fully equipped with fangs; therefore they still abound in uncleared jungle and are often encountered by the hardy engineers and laborers who are now building the new Madden Dam, on the upper Chagres River.

Here in the thick, humid, low-growing forest many a gliding danger waits and is disdained. To these men the frightful and beautifully garbed creatures which they may or may not meet are but such chances as go with any virile work. Should the snake be a bushmaster, even a boot may not protect, so some do not bother to wear boots. Should it be a palm viper, living in the trees, it will do no good to watch the ground. The canal was opened in 1914, and the snakes, in time, largely withdrew from the zone, but they still carry on lustily beyond Alhajuela.

Now they are discovering their error in making a midnight lounge of the magnificent new highway from Panama to the Madden Dam site. Concrete holds the heat after dark, so the snakes come out to lie upon it, but although a bushmaster could, perhaps, puncture a tire he and the others have found it futile to contend with that strange modern intruder, the automobile, and they are beginning to avoid traffic. Panamans who must walk home late at night there, however, never do so without a flashlight. The remarkable road runs right through actual jungle and level with it, and vegetation comes to the very edge on both sides.

Were the serpents of Panama ranked for efficiency, first place would go to the great bushmaster because of the enormous length of fang, the amount of poison injected, the force of the bite. But the upland tropical rattlesnake, king of rattlers, is, in the opinion of Mr. Ditmars, "the most strongly toxic among the New World vipers"—with the sole exception of the island tree viper, found only on one small island off Brazil. A close third is the fer-de-lance or yellowbeard, and due place must be kept for the handsome coral snakes, the hog-nosed vipers, the uncanny jumping viper which launches itself forward as it strikes, the aboreal palm vipers, the savage tropical water moccasin, and—off the west coast—the very poisonous sea snake, which has been observed from steamers in the Bay of Panama.

All these were aboriginal residents of the zone, and hold their own close by that peaceful paradise—and nevertheless the number of persons occuying Panama Canal quarters was 24,417 on March 31, of whom 17,117 were women and children, none of them the sort who can't pick the sweetpeas if a garter snake has been seen in the garden.

"Oh, I Know Something Dreadful Will Happen!"

POST HASTE.

Histrionically perfect, the withdrawal of J. Hamilton Lewis evidences appreciation that an adroit exit is good theater.

Golf used to be a Scotch game. But Sarazen is as Scotch as much that goes by that name today.

The Senate had better not raise the quorum question this week. With the big show of the century playing in Chicago the wonder is that any Democrats are here.

Among the funny things that come out of Europe is the idea that the latest Hoover disarmament proposal is simply a campaign move. Disarmament is about as hot a political issue here as the Mexican war.

This is the day we get Senator Barkley's diagram showing how specific Democratic embargoes and import duties have no relation to Republican tariffs.

If a majority can abolish the two-thirds rule at Chicago can a plurality change the majority requirements of the Electoral College?

The feminine contingent in the Roosevelt headquarters at Chicago is serving tea. So far as the press reports indicate "drink to me only with thine eyes" is the limit of Smith arguments.

King Prajadhipok of Siam returns to his throne "through the little hole of discretion."

Gov. Murray says, "I am going to stay in the race till some one bobs up who I can support." Who is his second choice?

Don't aim too high. Mickey Mouse is the world's most popular movie star.

Has any one thought to remind the Democrats at Chicago that they are also expected to nominate a Vice President?

It can't be done when he's fishing or farming, but some night an enterprising photographer will get a flashlight of Cal Coolidge without a stiff collar.

The big metrop sent six special trainloads to Chicago to help the Tammany braves decide which son of York would make a glorious summer after their winter of discontent.

OLD TIRES BECOME SHOES.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FLOWER COURAGE.

The little garden plot I tread
To music of the rustling leaves
At evening, as the sky grows red
My coming with delight receives.
The sad and weary world of doubt
By climbing roses is shut out.

The pretty little blossoms there
Assail me with no grievous word
Of burdens difficult to bear.
Nearby there is a singing bird
Exultant that he lives to be
The happy tenant of a tree.

So still and calm the scene appears
The peonies have no woes to tell.
No rose remembers happier years
And on its losses loves to dwell.
And yet somehow I seem to feel
Plants suffer hurts they could reveal.

The tenderest little bloom I own
Has braved the cruel winds and cold;
Has had to make its way alone
Against destroying foes and mold.
Yet nothing in my little yard
Like man cries out that life is hard.

The Jackals That Prey on the Weak Disappear When the Lion Roars.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If the cashier is "short" he never waits for exposure and conviction. He gives up when tardy suspicion threatens an audit of his accounts.

Evil and lawless men have no defense except the concealment afforded by public indifference. Publicity destroys them. They do not fight back when exposure threatens. They "take it on the lam."

When the public is aroused, watchful and ready to fight, there is no need of fighting. Nobody, in short, kicks a bull dog.

But, you say, the public frequently is aroused and evils flourish none the less.

Frequently is correct. But not continuously.

A few weeks ago a horrified nation swore a great oath to exterminate kidnapers.

Now the headlines tell new stories and people talk of other things. Excitement is a flame that burns out quickly and the lust for vengeance burns out with it.

Evils flourish because they work at their job all the time.

How do a few professional politicians control both political parties and name the candidates? By working at the job every day, while the public awakes from its indifference only once in four years.

How do selfish interests persuade Congress to betray the public it represents? By knowing what they want and working constantly to get it.

How do rum rings and racketeers thrive and grow ever more powerful? By working at their jobs night and day while the public waits for somebody to do something about it.

People don't get the kind of government they deserve. If they are decent people they deserve decent government. But they do get the kind of government they earn.

The ordinary citizen, being honest and respectable, innocently assumes that all men are like him. He is unaware of the sinister groups that labor without ceasing to profit at his expense.

People are betrayed, tricked, cheated, robbed and sacrificed without mercy because they endure without protest.

Yet they are all-powerful. Let them but choose a leader and rise as a unit to demand justice and right and no man with unclean hands will dare to face them.

Never yet has a three-shell man stopped to argue with an angry crowd.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Can They Do This?

Christian Science Monitor.

The best evidence of whether the wets have enough backing of public opinion to merit submission of their proposals to the people will be whether they can elect enough members of Congress to obtain it without dry assistance.

No Constructive Ideas.

Topeka Capital.

Senator Borah has often been a valuable man in the Senate. But his great value is critical, never constructive. It is true that the critical faculty is often indirectly constructive, and in this Senator Borah has to his credit a great record and a worldwide fame. While Mr. Borah criticizes the entire Republican platform and particularizes on its failure to point clearly to the solution of worldwide economic breakdown and "the way out," the simple reason why he refused to go to the Chicago convention is because he has not the glimmering of an idea of the "way out" or of the solution. He was safer at Washington.

Negative Appeal.

Fort Scott Tribune.

Those who take the trouble to find wherein Mr. Rockefeller is weak in his reasons for advocating repeal, will discover that it is the same weakness that all repealists, modificationists and resubmissionists, have in their arguments. Mr. Rockefeller makes a dramatic and convincing case against the dry amendment until he comes to the very last of his letter, where he admits he does not know, nor any one else, just what should take its place. At present, he says, no one knows a substitute plan for liquor control that could be agreed upon. That admission makes his whole appeal for repeal fall flat and his argument a total failure. The appeal is negative rather than positive.

Cities Must Do It.

Syracuse Post-Standard.

The demonstratable fact is, that the help needed to improve present conditions will be found in the cities of this country. There is no getting away from that fact. And it is about time that mayors and others stop thinking in terms of the Civil War and realize that the United States today is an urban Nation and that its problems center in its urban communities. This country needs a few Haroun al Raschids who will circulate among the citizens and find out what their difficulties are, not a lot of easily-defeated, "let George do it" politicians running to Washington for help. The administration has done everything that can be done to help. The remainder of the problem must be solved in the cities and by the cities.

He Must Go Eventually.

Chicago Tribune.

It is not to be believed that the demagogue and profligate is the final political expression of the United States or of any of its units. If that were to be believed the ruin of the republic would be certain and that is not to be believed. Temporarily the charlatan will gain control here or there, but self-interest and self-respect will combine in the citizenship to get rid of him.

Mrs. Owen a Good Sport.

Kansas City Star.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen is a good sport. In conceding her defeat for renomination to Congress she makes no complaint, and she is ready to give up her position before the next session because she is opposed to "lame ducks" holding office. This is a sacrifice of personal interests to principle that rarely is found in public life. Our hats are off to the daughter of William Jennings Bryan.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Sandboy Appeals for Constructive Reforestation to Prevent Floods and Droughts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Department of the Interior says that more fish are being added to the rivers, lakes and streams of the national parks. It is a good idea and I favor it, for the conservation of fish means the conservation of water, and waters are held within bounds by trees. When forests are denuded, it is only natural that rivers should overflow their banks. When rivers overflow, fish are carried out of the natural bed of the river and perish.

There should be more reforestation in the United States. Most of the countries in Europe appreciate the value of reforestation. When a tree is cut down, it is replaced by two or more seedlings. Here, whole forests are cut and never a seedling planted for the purpose of restocking. The Mississippi floods could be better controlled or prevented if the river were bounded by natural forests. Forests act as sponges, catching and retaining waters that would otherwise become floods. Forests also induce rainfall and thus prevent droughts.

If something is not done to save the forests in this country, one day in the not distant future the people here will suffer the penalty of floods and droughts on a Nation-wide scale.

ALFRED SANDBOY.

Miss Fielding Reports That Other Traffic Authorities Contradict Mr. Ullman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Several weeks ago William Ullman printed in The Post a long defense of fast driving, in the course of which he declared that it is comfortable and safe to travel by automobile on the open road at the rate of 45 to 50 miles an hour. Subsequently, when readers objected, he issued a further apology for speed, but modified his figures. Meantime, I was interested enough to submit his original statement to a number of persons who, like Mr. Ullman himself, have made special studies of traffic conditions, automobile accidents, and related problems. May I now have space merely to say that not one of these authorities agrees with Mr. Ullman? All contradict his statement that it is safe to tear along the highway at 45 or 50 miles an hour.

If a motorist had the whole earth to himself, the case might be different. But with other traffic on the road even a skillful driver can not sufficiently control circumstances to guarantee safety when traveling at such a pace. Speed and death are synonymous terms today.

Of course, I am sure that Mr. Ullman did not mean any harm, but I think it was a mistake for him to defend his original errors.

CHARLOTTE FIELDING.

Permit Government Workers to Take Sabbatical Leaves, G. S. Suggests.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Sabbatical years are allowed teachers in some schools and colleges. It would be "for the good of the service" if Government workers, who wished to do so, were allowed to take a sabbatical year, or part of a year, without pay, after fifteen years of less of service.

It would afford them an opportunity, now lacking, to travel, to take up special studies, or cultivate some talent—in short, to do just the things they want to do before they are too old. And most of all, it would give employes who are "run down" and out of health a chance to recuperate. They would go back to work with renewed health, strength and courage.

Steady work till 70 is a dreary prospect. For most people and most kinds of work 70 is too old a retirement age.

All workers should be able to take long vacations (no doubt they will be, with changing conditions), and Uncle Sam should set a good example to other employers.

As it is now, any one needing and wishing to take a long leave is obliged to resign and take a hazardous chance of being reinstated. If he is so fortunate as to get back, it is at reduced pay—permanently, likely.

At the present time of unemployment to allow clerks and others who are willing and could be spared to take extended leave, without regard to their length of service, might provide temporary employment for many to whom it would be a godsend. This arrangement might provide a good way to try out new clerks before giving them a permanent status.

J. L. G. Says Society Should Turn Gangsters' Weapons on Gangsters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The criminal is constantly at war with society. He is driven along by fear, hatred, danger and suspicion. As soon as he starts upon his career of crime, he isolates himself from society. Then he ekes out a living by preying upon society.

Criminals will continue to get bolder and more arrogant just as long as they are able to put fear in the hearts of decent people. There is only one way to combat the criminal successfully, and that is for the tables to be turned. Let society war upon the criminal element.

Frequently one reads in the papers where some innocent man, woman or child has been mown down by gangster bullets. The gangsters employ modern weapons in their warfare. It is time to put a stop to the killing of innocent people by turning the gangsters' arsenal upon the gangsters. Most criminals are cowardly at heart, but they put on a bold front when under the protection of a miniature armory. Pursue the criminal, bring out the cowardly instinct in him, and the social world can soon free itself of these contemptible wretches.

LAXITY OF COLLEGES ASSAILED BY PASTOR

Institutions Ought to Help Graduates Get Jobs, Says Rev. F. S. Niles.

"Few colleges attempt to cope with the very serious problem of getting its graduates started in life, to get him a job or to help him choose his vocation in life," said the Rev. Frank S. Niles yesterday at the Georgetown Presbyterian Church.

"The Vocation of a Christian" was the subject of Mr. Niles' sermon. He took his text from the twenty-first verse of the second chapter of the first book of Peter.

"What the college pretends to do is to give a cultural background and then tell the young graduate, 'Now it's up to you to do the rest. We can not take any further responsibility.'"

"And so we have this great mass of graduates pouring out this year into a world of unemployment. The time was when young graduates were in great demand, and it was the older men who feared unemployment.

"But this is June, all the rest of us are graduating along with the young people. Most of us feel today as though we had come to the end. Call it graduation, call it commencement or what you will. But here we stand along with the rest of the world, facing the blank future with no ideas whatever as to what that future holds life work shall be.

"We want to make this a real commencement. Most of us are eager to begin afresh. In the light of the present world situation, what would you older people do if you had to live life all over again? If you were given the privilege of beginning again, would you choose the same vocation which has been your life work? Would you advise your son or daughter to follow in your steps?"

DUBLIN EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS CONCLUDES

ferent avenues toward the altar which had been erected in the center of O'Connell Bridge.

By means of an elaborate loud-speaker system all the marching thousands were saying the same prayers and singing the same hymns at the same moment.

Headed by a troop of Cavalry and the banner of the Blessed Sacrament, 250,000 men, including clergy, marched before the Blessed Sacrament. The sacrament was covered by a canopy and had an escort of torchbearers and a military guard.

Next came the ten cardinals and their ministers, the princes of the church in the robes of their rank. Behind them followed the archbishops, the bishops, the lord abbotts and other prelates, followed by a choir.

After these came the ministers of state, headed by President Eamon De Valera, of the Irish Free State, and the Dail Eireann and Senate. Then representatives from Ulster, Papal nobility, the diplomatic corps, Irish officials and last the thousands of women.

As the leaders of the four columns reached the bridgehead the procession halted and after four hymns the benediction was said—in Latin at the altar, in English at the microphone—and the 17-mile long procession broke into the "Aodrer-us."

After the papal benediction and the legate's farewell, the great congregation broke into the hymns "God Bless Our Pope," "Hail, Glorious St. Patrick," and "Faith of Our Fathers."

A fanfare of trumpets rang through the still, hushed streets. Priests began taking off their surplices. The congress was over.

ern Ireland, as well as bitter political differences.

The two elements are typified by the Republicans of southern and preponderantly Catholic Ireland and the Orangemen of northern and mostly Protestant Ireland.

There have been many battles at the border in the past. The Orangemen are members of the secret Orange Society, an association of Irish Protestants, originating and flourishing mostly in Ulster. Its name is derived from King William III, Prince of Orange.

Orangeism is essentially political, its original object having been the maintenance of Protestant ascendancy, and that spirit still imbues the membership.

Ballymena and Larne are two of the principal cities of County Antrim, in which also Belfast is situated. Ballymena is an inland town whose major industry is linen-making. Larne is on the eastern coast. Both are on a parallel about the center of Antrim, and each is some 20 to 35 miles north of Belfast.

Coleraine is a town in the neighboring county of Londonderry, accessible to the northern coast. It is one of the principal cities of the county and its activity centers around linen making and salmon fishing.

cated, however, they would not yield on the minor issues in conflict and a move has been made in the Senate already to give way.

Few other issues stand in the way of adjournment Saturday. The Philippine independence bill is before the Senate, but leaders have served notice it will be laid aside if prolonged debate develops.

They also plan to ask for a vote in the Senate on the administration-sponsored bill to create a system of home loan discount banks, which already has passed the House. Proponents of the measure believed it would not lead to long debate.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

A CONSIDERABLE change in ratings has occured as more and more answers to the Motion Picture Herald's questionnaire as to the ten players who have attracted the greatest number of patrons to the motion picture box-offices of the country are received and tabulated.

On the face of the latest returns, as published in the issue of the trade journal dated June 25, Marie Dressler still retains first place, although her percentage has dropped from 91 to 71. Janet Gaynor and Joan Crawford remain in second and third places, respectively, but with percentages reduced from 84 to 62 and from 75 to 57, in the order named, as the balloting gets heavier. Wallace Beery manages to cling to fourth place with a percentage of 52, as opposed to his original 67.

From this point, midway in the list, on to the end changes occur. Will Rogers and Charles Farrell both move ahead of Greta Garbo with a tied percentage of 47. Garbo slips into the seventh notch with 46 per cent and Clark Gable moves ahead of Norma Shearer by a fraction of one per cent, with 45 to Miss Shearer's 44.7.

Wheeler & Woolsey, formerly rated tenth, drop out of the running entirely on this compilation of the ballots and Joe E. Brown moves into tenth place with a percentage of 33 as opposed to his former rating of 44.6.

With all these readjustments, there is still little change in company representations. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer continues in the van with six players listed among the ten most potent box-office personalities on the screen, Fox has three and First National one.

It is probable that further returns will occasion additional revisions in national standings.

The extraordinary success of the good Dr. Ziegfeld's revival of his fabulous musicalization of Edna Ferber's novel of "Show Boat," in New York, has imbued other producers with the idea that they, too, might enjoy comparable profits by resuscitating other successful musical shows of the past.

The first to put the thought into action, according to current report, will be Vincent Youmans, with a new presentation of "Hit the Deck," which ran a full twelve months some five or six years ago with Louise Groody and Charles King in the leading roles.

Before Youmans revamped it, with songs added, "Hit the Deck" was known as "Shore Leave," originally a Belasco production, which, as I recall it, was given its premiere in the Belasco Theater in this city, with Frances Starr and James Rennie in the principal roles.

It subsequently was converted into a silent screen vehicle for Richard Barthelmess and, as a picturized "Hit the Deck," introduced Bebe Daniels as a prima donna and proved to be one of her outstanding triumphs—as well as Radio Pictures'.

What a swell idea it would be if, in addition to the rousing "Hallelujah" number, Mr. Youmans could find a spot in his new production of "Hit the Deck" for "Drums in My Heart," that smash hit from the third act of "Love Is All," his musically fine but dramatically ill-judged musical iversion of Jane Cowl's romantic success, "Smilin' Through," which, following preparatory weeks in Pittsburgh and Washington, survived only briefly on Broadway.

Speaking of Broadway survivals, only eleven theatrical attractions are extant on the Gay Blight Way—a new low for the past two decades or more.

Over in London, Joe Cook has opened in his new musical comedy, "Fanfare." Some time along in mid-winter he will return to these shores to drape himself in the stellar responsibilities of a new piece being written to measure by Russell Crouse and Corey Ford. The tunes will be jingled out of Owen Murphy's piano, as most of Mr. Cook's have been for a long time now.

What with her laying herself open to charges of deliberate incendiarism in the title-role of Katharine Brush's "Red Headed Woman," current at the Palace, and having no longer ago than last April occupied the same stage in person for a week, Washington has a right to be interested in Jean Harlow's surprise bridegroom.

Who is this man Paul Bern?

Well, Paul Bern is right-hand man to Irving Thalberg, the producing genius on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer West Coast lot, and is rated one of the best-known and best-liked film supervisors in the movie colony. In inside celluloid circles it is generally conceded that Mr. Bern has been responsible for some of the most successful productions of recent vintage, notably "Grand Hotel," "Strange Interlude," "As You Desire Me," "Arsene Lupin" and "Polly of the Circus."

He started his career in Wall street—as office boy. At the age of 16 he became acutely theater-conscious and graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts with honors. He then became actor, stock director and, eventually, producer, his most notable achievement in the latter field having been the sponsoring of Frank Craven in "Too Many Cooks."

In 1913 he turned his attention to gelatine drama and became head man for Benjamin Chapin in producing the Lincoln cycle, being credited with much of the direction, supervision and writing.

In rapid succession he served as scenario editor for Paramount, free lance writer, director, and, more recently, as associate supervisor and assistant to Mr. Thalberg at M-G-M.

Mr. Bern's home is in Beverly Hills. He has lectured on the motion picture at New York University, Cornell and Columbia and has been invited to lecture on the same subject at Oxford, England.

Hollywood, inured to surprises, was never more astonished than when apprised of Miss Harlow's and Mr. Bern's intention to wed. And no young couple ever approached that long march to the chair—pardon, the altar, with more good wishes than these two. At least, that's the way it comes to me, straight from the Coast.

One of the most praiseworthy innovations in "Bring 'Em Back Alive," the unprecedented jungle film at RKO-Keith's, is the discreet abandonment of the spoken narrative when the animal action gets so hot that continued comment could only serve as an impediment to its greatest effectiveness. The author of the story and its chief human actor is to be congratulated upon his unerring sense of when to fade out of the sound track.

This, of course, is what is technically known as passing the Buck!

RUSSELL BOARDMAN IS AIR RACE WINNER

Averages 199.55 Miles Per Hour in Niagara Falls Meet Feature.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 26 (A.P.)—Sending his low winged Gee Bee speedster over the 5-mile course at an average speed of 199.55 miles per hour, Russell Boardman, of Springfield, Mass., today won the 50-mile free-for-all feature race of the Niagara Falls air race meet.

He won by almost a lap over Johnny Livingstone, of Aurora, Ill., who finished second with an average speed of 188.21 miles per hour. Art Killips, of Lansing, Mich., finished third.

By winning, Boardman took the major prize of the meet, the Niagara Falls Manufacturers' Cup and $1,000 in cash. Capt. Roy Liggett, of Wichita, Kans., one of the prerace favorites, was forced out at the third lap when his Cessna special developed engine trouble.

Betty Lund, of Troy, Ill., won the special Canadian 20-mile race for women pilots with Annette Gipson, of New York, second, and Helen Richey, of Pittsburgh, third.

Johnny Livingstone added to his Laurels by winning the 20-mile race for small motored planes in the same monocoupe in which he placed second to Boardman in the 50-mile race while Mattie Laird, of Chicago, got a first in another race for smaller planes.

Hoover to Return To Capital Today

First Lady and Herbert, Jr., Leave Camp So Latter Can Catch Train.

Luray, Va., June 26 (A.P.).—President Hoover rested in his Rapidan fishing camp today as cloudy skies failed to temper a warmth that pierced even the usual mountain coolness.

Mrs. Hoover and Herbert Hoover, jr., spending a quiet family week-end with the Chief Executive, left for Washington in the afternoon that the son might catch a train for New York, and the President was reported remaining alone in camp aside from Dr. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, and Lawrence Richey, one of the secretaries.

Secretary Hyde of the Agricultural Department motored to the camp today to confer with the President and will return with him tomorrow.

Evangelist Hears Of Husband's Trial

Aimee S. McPherson-Hutton, Ill, Gets Details of $200,000 Suit.

Los Angeles, June 26 (A.P.).—Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, ill in a sanitarium at Palms, was aware for the first time today that a $200,000 breach of promise suit against her husband, David Hutton, had gone to trial last Monday.

The evangelist grew increasingly restive over lack of news and began inquiring as to why Hutton did not visit her home more frequently.

Her physician, Dr. Edward H. Williams, then took her a copy of a newspaper containing not only a resume of the trial to date but a report of charges by Superior Judge Frank C. Collier that representatives of her Angelus Temple were attempting to "sell" use of the temple's radio to judiciary candidates.

Afterward Dr. Williams reported her condition slightly worse, but said he did not attribute it to the information she had received.

Witnesses in Bank Holdup View Pair

Are Unable to Identify Suspects in Mechanics Savings Robbery.

Suspects held in the holdup of the Georgia avenue branch of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank were viewed at headquarters yesterday afternoon by witnesses to the daring daylight robbery that netted the bandits over $9,000 on June 10, but none were identified as the gunmen.

The prisoners will be viewed again tonight, and probably several more times, until witnesses in two bank robberies, the one of June 10 and the one five months ago, when the East Capitol street branch of the same bank was robbed, have an opportunity to thoroughly scrutinize the men.

Detective Sergts. John Wise and Frank Brass, working in cooperation with the Baltimore police, arrested two men in that city Saturday after an all-night search of downtown hotels. The men, Edward Workman, 28, and Harry Miller, 25, both of Columbia, S. C., were returned here for questioning in the two robberies. They and several other well-known police characters were viewed by the witnesses yesterday.

Plane Rushes Vaccine In Mexican Epidemic

Mexico City, June 26 (A.P.).—Twenty-five thousand tubes of smallpox vaccine have been rushed by airplane to Arteaga, Michoacan, to combat an outbreak of virulent smallpox.

NATS REGAIN THIRD PLACE BY BEATING BOSTON, 8-4

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WHAT had appeared to be a perfectly respectable pennant race last April is rapidly taking on the aspects of a pennant chase with the New York Yankees the object of pursuit in the American League.

This morning the Yankees' advantage over the Nats is nine games, gained by a victorious tour of the West, while the Washington Club was able to win only half of its last eighteen games.

The Nats have an opportunity to do something constructive for any lingering pennant hopes during the next week when they engage in hand-to-hand combat with both the Yankees and the Athletics, four games with each.

Anything less than an even break with the Yankees in the four games this week may seal the unhappy fate of the Nats as far as their pennant chances are concerned. But for some unexplainable reasons, the Washington Club has showed at its best against New York and Philadelphia. It has been the poor performance against the Western clubs that have dragged the Nats down in the standings.

This column was just about to point out that the Nats earned some tolerance in the West due to the absence of Cronin and Manush in the early games, but with no better than an even break gained here in the two games with the Red Sox, the excuses begin to fade.

The Nats have had little assistance from the other clubs in their battle to keep the Yankees from making a runaway race of the championship, but the recent splurge of the Detroit Tigers gives indication that at least one Western team will make the going a bit rougher for the New York Club.

It has been the ease with which the Yankees have flattened the West that has contributed to the long lead of McCarthy's men. New York has lost only six games to the four Western clubs at a stage of the season when 60 games have already been played. Against Washington the Yankees have been able to win only six of the thirteen games played between the two clubs.

The Red Sox presented the ideal double-play combination in the second inning yesterday—while they were at bat. Jolley was on first and Alexander hitting. It was the infielder's delight. On Alexander's grounder, Jolley was out at second by 20 feet, and Alexander was caught at first by 30.

With Johnson, Watwood, Alexander and Jolley in the line-up, the Red Soox are the heavyweights of the American League. They aren't stylish stouts either. Just big hemen.

The Pirates went into the lead in the National League yesterday, and the feeling grows that one first-class club could make a runaway race of the senior circuit.

The National League apparently has found a way to keep Pepper Martin from stealing bases—by keeping him off base. The hero of the world series last year is batting .236 this season and will be willing to trade his fame for some well-directed base hits.

Connie Mack took no risks with Lefty Grove's eleven-game winning streak. The great Grove failed to appear in the two-game series with the Yankees that ended yesterday. Maybe that explains something.

The Nats are the champions of the league in one respect, anyway. They are the only team to beat Lefty Gomez, the Yankees' pitching sensation who has won 14 and lost one. But, then, of course, Gomes doesn't have to face the Yankee hitters.

Gene Sarazen And Burke Beaten

Lose Benefit Match to Armour and Jones, 3 and 2.

Armour Shoots a 69 Despite Gallery's Interference.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

FLUSHING, N. Y., June 26 (A.P.).—As an aftermath of the national open golf tournament, four of the world's greatest golfers played a match for charity today and suffered untold hardships at the hands of a gallery of 2,000 Sunday fans, very few of whom possessed driver's licenses.

Mostly because Tommy Armour was able to control his temper and his shots better than his comrades, the team of Armour and Bobby Jones managed to defeat the new open champion, Gene Sarazen, and Billy Burke, 3 up and 2 to play.

Crowd Twice Forces Armour To Pick Up.

Despite the fact the crowd twice overran his ball and forced him to pick up each time, the gray-haired Armour finally turned in an approximate card of 69, one under par. That would have been sufficient to decide the match without Jones' first and only birdie on the sixteenth hole.

Sarazen plainly suffering a natural letdown after his sizzling 68 in the final round of the open could do no better than 73, even when he was conceded all manner of three and four foot putts, while Burke recorded a 74.

Jones recorded a 78, but it wasn't entirely his fault. He suffered indignities. Once he accidently was struck across the face by a bamboo pole in the hands of a gallery police. Also the stampeding fans seldom gave him a clear shot at the green. On one hole his second shot struck the rough and an admirer, desiring to be helpful, picked it up and tossed it out well on the fairway.

Sarazen, who received a check for $1,000 for winning the open, gave $500 of it back to the mayor's unemployment relief fund, promoter of today's festivities.

Following are the cards, to be accepted with proper reservation. They do not show the 6-foot putts that were conceded, or the balls that were buried in the lush earth by eager galleryites.

Hagen and Juardo Win Golf Exhibition, 9 Up

Baltimore, June 26 (A.P.).—Walter Hagen and Jose Juardo, the Argentine champion, were too much for Glenn Spencer and Tomikichi Miyamoto in a golf match here this afternoon on the links of the Baltimore Country Club, winning nine up.

Hagen and his partner played almost flawless golf while Spencer and the Japanese became human on several occasions.

Hagen, was especially keen, battling his way around the course with a 68, three under par. Juardo, who did not play the fourth hole, shot a 64. Miyamoto, who got into trouble with his putter turned in a 76 and Spencer a 76.

U. S. Hopes High At Wimbledon Nets

Vines, Wood, Shields, Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs in the Running.

Wimbledon, Eng., June 26 (A.P.).—International tennis' picked stars, men and women, rested today preparatory to resuming tomorrow their battle for the five titles up for decision in the British championships.

America still held a strong hand in both men's and women's singles. In the former, Ellsworth Vines, Sidney B. Wood and Frank Shields still remained to carry on the fight for the title now held by Wood. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs were the American survivors in women's singles. Play in both had reached the quarter-finals.

Vines' next opponent will be the Spanish Davis Cup player, Ernest Maier, the winner to meet the survivor of a match between Fred Perry of England and Jack Crawford of Australia.

In the lower half, Shields will encounter the British stylist, Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, while Wood's opponent will be the Japanese, Jiroh Satoh. Expert predictions forecast victories for Vines, Perry, Austin and Wood.

Tigers Beat Chisox In One Big Inning

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox defense collapsed after two were out in the eighth inning today and Detroit scored all its runs for a 5-to-1 victory to even the series.

Earl Webb singled after two were gone in the big inning, and errors by Minter Hayes, Elias Funk and Charlie Berry, with two walks and two more singles, accounted for the Tiger runs. The Sox had led since the fifth when doubles by Appling and Gaston scored one run. Vic Sorrell held the losers to six hits.

PORTNEY DUE TEST IN REED

Real Battle Promised at Twin City Wednesday.

JACK PORTNEY, the shufflin' Baltimore southpaw, has one grand opportunity to make himself popular with Washington fans in his eight-round scrap Wednesday night in Twin-City Arena. For Portney, who has been accused of meeting only set-ups heretofore, will be opposed by Jimmy Reed, a fighter with a real wallop and experience.

If Jack subdues Reed there will be little doubt remaining as to his true ability. Reed has won 40 per cent of his bouts by kayoes and seldom has failed to floor his opponent. The Florida lad is a far cry from the cream-puff type like Louie Jallos whom Portney chased all over Portner's ring some time ago.

Portney Never Beaten In District.

Portney never has been defeated before a Capital audience, yet he isn't well liked. His style of fighting is not colorful. He doesn't swing from the floor, like Washington fans want their fighters to do. Instead, Jack tucks his chin behind his right shoulder, shuffles into position and deals out short punches at close range. Sometimes he does plenty of damage with those seemingly insignificant blows, but unless his foe drops to the canvas the crowd doesn't appreciate his work.

In his Baltimore training quarters yesterday Portney expressed his views thusly:

"I've been accused of meeting set-ups too often in the past, but the fact is that I have battled everything offered me. I had nothing to do with selecting my opponents.

"Reed's record proves he is big-time stuff, and I'm glad of it. If he whips me I won't alibi. But if I win—and I don't have any doubts about it—I would like to get some credit."

Barry to Take on Weiner.

Reds Barry and Herman Weiner, heavyweights, and Ray Bowen and Henry Janco, junior welters, will tangle in the other eight-rounders. Young Van will meet Johnny Adams in six, while Young Jack Simpson and Tommy Horn will open the show in four rounds.

Tickets go on sale at Vic's Sport Shop today. Ladies with paying escorts will be admitted free.

Nurmi, at 35, Smashes All Marathon Records

VUIPURA, Finland, June 26 (A.P.).—Paavo Nurmi made his debut as a marathon runner today and promptly smashed to bits all previous records for the classic grind.

The "Phantom Finn," now 35, raced over the course of 26 miles, 385 yards, in 2 hours 22 minutes 4 seconds, to leave his closest competitor, Toivonen, 1,200 meters (about 1,300 yards) behind. Toivo Loukola, who won the Olympic 3,000-meter steeplechase title in 1928, was third.

Since marathons are run over courses varying in difficulty, there is no official world's record for the distance. Hannes Kolemainen's Olympic record of 2 hours 32 minutes and 35 4-5 seconds, set in 1920 at Antwerp, generally has come to be considered the universal standard. Nurmi smashed that mark by more than 10 minutes.

Nurmi finished in excellent condition and apparently could have cut several minutes off his time had he been pressed.

Paavo's victory justified Finland's expectations that he will win the Olympic marathon at Los Angeles this summer, granting that he is reinstated by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

He will sail with the Finnish Olympic Team and expects to be reinstated by the I. A. A. F. when that organization meets at Los Angeles just before the Olympics.

Macks Bow To Yanks, 6 to 2

Walberg Yields Four Runs in First as A's Drop to 4th.

Bishop Hits Homer; Foul Ball Injures Catcher Dickey.

NEW YORK, June 26 (A.P.).—The Yankees piled up a four-run lead against the Philadelphia Athletics in the first inning today and thereafter did little to excite the fans as they rambled on through a slow game to a 6-to-2 victory. The Yanks swept the two game series and dropped the A's to fourth place.

Charley Ruffing kept Philadelphia's seven hits well scattered and had the assistance of three double plays in holding down the scoring. He gave himself some trouble with five walks but his mound rival, Rube Walberg, outdid him by passing eight.

Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, had to leave the game in the third inning after having been bruised by a foul from Al Simmons' bat in the second.

Walberg's Wildness Costly.

Walberg's wildness in the first inning started the Yanks off to an almost unbeatable lead. He mixed walks to Combs, Ruth and Gehrig with doubles by Ben Chapman and Tony Lazzeri. Tight support kept the Yanks from getting many more runs off his delivery.

Max Bishop hit a home run in the third for one Philadelphia counter and McNair's infield hit, a pass to Dykes and infield outs by Walberg and Bishop brought another in the fifth.

25,000 See Braves And Phillies Divide

Boston, June 26 (A.P.).—The Braves and Phillies split a double-header today before 25,000 fans. The Braves won the first tilt, 5-4, but dropped the nightcap, 5-1.

Rhem was charged with the loss of the first game, his initial defeat after 4 straight victories since he joined the Phillies. His downfall came in the eighth on successive hits by Worthington and Berger and Shires' long fly.

Zachary was unable to tame the Phillies in the second game and before he had retired they had scored 5 runs. Frankhouse and Pruett, who followed him on the mound, hurled hitless ball.

THE UNION PRINTERS threw a scare into the ranks of the supporters of Ciro's Italian Village team before succumbing, 13 to 12, in section A, unlimited division, of The Post's Capital City League yesterday. No less surprising was City Cab's 10-to-6 triumph over the favored Horning Jewelers in the same section.

In section B, Federal Storage established a new record for runs scored in one game as they crushed Diamond Cab, 30 to 3. St. Joseph's defeated Federal Unionists, 10 to 6, and Rock Creek handed the Franc Jewelers at 7 to 0 setback.

Jenkins' Homer, 3 On, Decisive.

Benny Jenkins' circuit cleut coming in the ninth inning with the bases fully populated and Ciro's trailing by three runs saved the day for his team. None were out at the time. Holbrooke and Barry also socked homers.

City Cab was obliged to come from behind to overcome the Horning Jewelers.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

With improved track conditions, Joe again tries his secret handicap system. So far, on $5 bets, he is showing a $260 profit. Following are his selections today: Lady Worthmore, Warren Jr., Pairbypair, Yonkel, Acajou, Polydorous and Mr. Gayety.

Asbestos' roll sank to $49.26 when Esseff ran third Saturday. His code horse was scratched.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, JUNE 26.

We have gone to new pastures and here's hoping that they may remain green. One more day at Washington Park and I would have sent an S O S for Bill.

I only had one winner and a blind man could have picked it. The best horses in the country will appear in the Arlington Park entries. The 30-day meet, which opens tomorrow, has a stake carded for each day and more than $600,000 will be distributed in stakes and purses. Here's hoping, too, that we get ours. Yours, MIKE.

FIRST RACE—As usual, a maiden 2-year-old race opens the day's festivities. My advice is to save your money, but, should you wish to risk a two-spot, Mr. Bradley's Black Toney colt, BOLD LOVER, seems best. NORTHGALIS and WARREN J. for what is left.

SECOND RACE—MISS MARR has a big pull in the weights, plenty of early speed and should be at a good price. HIGHER should be the contender all the way, while JAZ AGE, in whom Bill has a great interest, should show.

THIRD RACE—INDIAN RUNNER is fresh and good and will be hard to beat. PAIRBYPAIR is the contender, with WAR GLOW to peep.

FOURTH RACE—I believe that YONKEL will greet the judges first. IMPISH and KINCSEN are the contenders in the race.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ONCE more the attention of the radio audience is focussed upon Chicago, which becomes the center of broadcasting activities with the opening of the quadrennial meeting of the Democrats in the Chicago Stadium this morning. The chains will be practically given over to the Democratic convention during this week. Regular schedules will be upset whenever there is anything of interest going on in the arena. WRC and WMAL will probably be on the air for hours at a time when the balloting starts and will carry all the nominating speeches as well.

The opening session, with the keynote speech by Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, will be etherized at 10:30 a. m. today by Station WRC. There will be convention reports and highlights over WRC at 12 noon and 5 o'clock this afternoon, with William Hard and David Lawrence at the microphone.

Station WMAL will open with a talk by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City at 9:30 a. m. today, followed by the breakfast given by the Illinois Democratic women's national convention committee, where the speakers will be Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen and Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago. There will be a two-hour broadcast today from the convention floor beginning at noon, and Senator C. C. Dill will speak briefly beginning at 3 p. m.

A talk by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, a candidate for the nomination, is scheduled for 5:45 o'clock this afternoon. The dinner of the Young Democratic Club, which will be addressed by Robert M. Hutchins, University of Chicago, Commander Richard E. Byrd, of Virginia, and possibly Will Rogers. The Chicago broadcasts will be concluded at 10 p. m. tonight over WMAL with a summary of the day's activities by Frederic William Wile.

HAPPENINGS at the sixteenth annual meeting of Kiwanis International at Detroit will be heard by members of the organization throughout the United States when William O. Harris, president, addresses a Nation-wide audience (WRC, 9:45 p. m.) tonight from the Masonic Temple in Detroit.

Arrangements are being made by Harry A. Westcott, formerly of Station WJSV, for a big benefit to be participated in by all the local radio celebrities to aid the bonus army. The benefit will not be broadcast, and, according to present plans, will be held around July 15.

An effort is being made to secure the Washington Auditorium, but if this is not successful, it is hoped that one of the Washington theaters may be available.

A FEATURE of the Firestone program tonight will be an interpretation of the Barcarolle from "Tales of Hoffman," by Offenbach, by Richard Crooks, tenor * * * S. L. Rothafel will be guest conductor during the Parade of the States program, honoring Minnesota * * * Joura Guller, French pianiste and pupil of Phillippe, will make her debut over the WEAF network, but not WRC, at 6 p. m. * * * The regular broadcast by the United States Navy Band has been postponed because of the convention program this morning * * * A concert orchestra, directed by Graham Harris, and a dance band led by Billy Artz will replate the Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, radio mystery dramas, for the summer months, beginning this week * * * A new script act, presenting a series of satires on the foibles of modern life, will make its debut over WMAL tonight when the first incident in the Adventures of Don Quick is broadcast. Don Quick, a 1932 Don Quixote, is an amusing individual whose downfall has been caused by the reading of modern mystery stories, big business success tales, and flowery romances.

Lorraine Benton, 6 years old, of 29 Hesketh street, Chevy Chase, pianist, is the latest addition to Edith Reed's group, broadcasting at 4 o'clock Monday afternoons from Station WOL.

KANE AND ARDALA WERE SPEAKING IN LOW TONES.
CAN YOU HEAR WHAT THEY'RE SAYING, BUCK?
SHH! SOMETHING ABOUT LOADING THE SHIP WITH A RADIUM CARGO—"UP IN THE VALLEY"—NOW, WHERE CAN THAT BE?
JUST THEN A GONG SOUNDED—IN KILLER KANE'S HEADQUARTERS—
BUT DO YOU THINK IT'S SAFE TO ORDER EVERYBODY OUT OF THE WORKINGS UP INTO THE VALLEY? SOMEONE SHOULD BE ON GUARD!

Palace Discovered 4,000 Years of Age

Vessels and Jewels Found at Tepe Hissar Site, Northwest Persia.

Philadelphia, June 26 (A.P.).—A palace more than 4,000 years old has been uncovered at Tepe Hissar, near Damghan in northwestern Persia, it was announced today at the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The discovery was made by a joint expedition of the museum and the American Institute for Persian Art and Archeology.

Dr. Erich Schmidt, field director of the expedition, reported there were found also some alabaster vessels, a copper dagger with a silver grip, and many gold, silver and agate ornaments of the period.

The discovery, he stated, afforded evidence of the existence of a complete town site, of which the palace was probably the center. About six months ago the expedition uncovered a cemetery at Tepe Hissar and found the remains of hundreds of persons with their complete mortuary equipment. Finding of the palace at the same site, Dr. Schmidt reported, points to the existence of a town life which had hitherto been unsuspected.

Man Reports $15 Watch Stolen by Acquaintance

A chance acquaintance with a colored man early yesterday morning cost Arthur H. Mack, of 1537 Eighth street northwest, a gold watch valued at $15.

Mack told police he was walking across the Highway Bridge toward Washington when he overtook the colored man walking in the same direction. They walked together and when they reached the Tidal Basin, the man robbed him of his watch.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ALLAN ROBERTSON was considered the best golfer of his time. He started playing when he was 18 years old, and continued until his death at the age of 44. He was never beaten. In 1857, two years before his death, he played a 79 with feather golf balls. Robertson did not approve the then new-fangled gutta ball. He was a producer of feather balls, and in one year turned out 2,456.

Round-ups of blackfish are not entirely unlike cattle round-ups. The fish are herded up on the beach, where they are killed. They have been caught in this manner particularly on Cape Cod.

The fish, ranging from 8 to 22 feet in length, are attracted to the shore by squid, on which they feed. Fishermen then surround them by boats, and drive them inland until they are stranded on the beach. One of the greatest catches of blackfish in this manner was made in 1884, when 1,500 were driven up on land and killed. Catches of blackfish in this manner are becoming very rare.

It was not an opponent's punch, but a pop bottle hurled by a spectator that caused Dick Daviscourt's ur.doing at a semiwind-up bout held in Philadelphia. The bout had ended, and the wrestlers, Daviscourt and Earl McCready, were awaiting the decision when Daviscourt was floored by the pop bottle knockout. The match was called a draw.

BORAH VOICES PLEA FOR NATIONAL HOME FOR JEWISH PEOPLE

Tells Diners Race Hatred Is Inferiority Badge All Should Shun.

DR. WISE PLACES FAITH IN JUSTICE OF MANKIND

World Jewish Congress Is Hailed as Necessary to Protection of Rights.

The establishment of a national home for the Jewish people would go far toward ameliorating the intolerable treatment which they have received at the hands of some nations or governments, Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, told delegates to the American Jewish Congress at a dinner last night at the Willard Hotel.

"There are two rights which ought to be accorded to any people," he pointed out, "the right to have a national home and feel the inspiration of national spirit, and the right to be protected from injustice and persecution." Race hatred, he said, is a "badge of inferiority which all nations ought to seek to be rid."

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, honorary president of the Jewish Congress, expressed his confidence that mankind would be just to the Jewish people. He said that he did not believe that, "Hitlerism is the last word of the German people," and that "whatever political and partisan changes may for a time threaten the peace of Germany, the more than half million Jews will not be physically exiled from the Germany of Heine and Boerne, Wasserman and Albert Einstein, nor be doomed to the spiritual fate of eviction from fullest sharing in the life and status of German citizenship."

World Congress Hailed.

The World Jewish Congress, which is one of the projects of the convening congress, was termed by Dr. Wise a necessary move to protect the interests and safety of world Jewry, and those who opposed the conference, which is scheduled to begin August 14, in Geneva, he said had lost confidence in democracy.

An administrative report presented to the session of the congress yesterday by Abraham H. Cohen, executive director of the organization, termed certain activities in Germany as "subversive anti-Semitic propaganda."

In Russia, the report read, the Jews enjoy full civil and political rights insofar as these rights are acknowledged by the system under which he lives. The Soviet government combats every form of anti-Semitism with weapons of enlightenment.

Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the American Jewish Congress, protested against discrimination against Jewish students in American universities, which he said existed. "This type of injustice should cause intense concern to all right-thinking men, Jewish and non-Jewish," Mr. Deutsch said.

He told the delegates that there would be a break in the present economic order and that the masses of Jews should make some adaptation to a possible new order.

U. S. Influence Needed.

"Anti-Semitism has become an almost universal creed," Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, chairman of the national executive committee of the congress, said. "A review of what is happening to the Jews in Europe rouses the greatest apprehension as to the limit of human and superhuman endurance," he asserted.

"The United States, which has a vital interest in the recovery of the world, must lend its powerful influence to the suppression of international crime and racial war," Dr. Tenenbaum contended.

Judge Julian Mack, addressing the dinner last night, indorsed the World Jewish Congress project as a step toward a democratic representation of world Jewry in solving their difficulties. Opposition to the conference by certain Jewish notables, he termed, as cogs in the progress of world amity.

Sessions of the congress today will be devoted to discussions of problems arising out of discrimination against Jews in this country. A symposium on the economic status of the Jews in America will be led by Prof. Horace M. Kallen, of the School of Social Research, and Prof. Max Winkler, of New York University.

Addresses at the dinner last night were sent over the air by the National Broadcasting Co.

MAN THEFT VICTIM THROWN FROM CAR

Was Beaten by Two Robbers After They Took His $1, He Tells Police.

Lawrence Dixon, 27, of 1914 Connecticut avenue, told police he was forced into an automobile, taken for a ride, beaten, robbed and then thrown from the car early yesterday.

According to Dixon, he was walking around Dupont Circle when two men drove up and forced him to get into their car. He was driven to Twenty-seventh and N streets, where he was assaulted, then taken to Wisconsin avenue and R streets, struck several times with a blunt instrument and robbed of $1, he said.

He said the men then started the car and as it was moving, threw him out. He was removed to Emergency Hospital in an emergency car of the Third Police Precinct, where he was treated for a fractured nose and possible fracture of the jaw. His condition is not serious, and he later returned to his home.

It is thought by police that the same two men earlier in the night held up at pistol point and robbed Harold McGrady, of Takoma Park, Md., of his billfold, containing $125.

McGrady said he was standing at Cedar and Chestnut streets, Takoma Park, when two men drove up in a car, stepped out and robbed him. They escaped in the car.

For hours the theft of 200 Persian rugs valued at $5,000 escaped the observation of policemen on the beat covering 1226 Connecticut avenue northwest and was discovered by the casual observation of a pedestrian.

The rug store of Armen Narzarian was entered by thieves who removed a pane of glass 2 feet wide and 6 inches high from the front door and opened a lock from the inside. The robbery took place between 6 o'clock Saturday night and 6 o'clock last night.

A pedestrian, who did not leave his name, noticed the glass removed from the door and called police.

Lifting of Fireworks Ban Causes Boom in Arlington

Taking advantage of the removal of a ban by the Arlington County board prohibiting the sale of fireworks, hundreds of merchants are announcing unlimited stocks with gaudy banners screaming their wares.

Although there is a ban in the District and nearby counties on the sale of certain fireworks, they may be obtained by all residents of the District and surrounding counties providing they are "willing to drive a few miles for them," was the reason given for Arlington County lifting the ban. Members of the Arlington County board declared that the county "might as well get its share of the business."

The county provides that fireworks can be sold only by licensed merchants and that stands erected along the highway for the sole purpose of the sale of fireworks are unlawful.

A license costing $5 is required for a merchant to sell fireworks, it was said. They are obtained at the office of the commissioner of revenue, H. K. Green.

Because of the volume of fireworks sales and because the county does not offer restrictions on the firing of fireworks, a warning to parents to watch their children and prevent injury has been issued by Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer.

FETES OPEN JULY 6 AT SYLVAN THEATER

Lisa Gardiner Dancers to Be Seen in First Program of Summer Season.

The summer festival programs at the Sylvan Theater in the Monument Grounds will enter upon their fourth consecutive season on Wednesday evening, July 6, when at 8 o'clock the Lisa Gardiner dancers, assisted by the United States Army Band, will present a joint program of music and dance, which for the last three seasons has been one of the high lights of the Sylvan Theater summer programs under the auspices of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, assisted by the National Capital Civic Fund.

A varied program has been arranged by Miss Gardiner for this outdoor event, including numbers danced to compositions by Saint-Saens, Schutt, Strauss, Dvorak, Wienawski, Alvarado and Bobba. Miss Gardiner will appear in a solo number, "Caucasian Dance," and another authentic dance will be Yaqui dance and El Condor Pasa, to be given as one, by the dancers, who have created their own costumes.

A bacchanale, a scarf dance and a mazurka will be among the colorful numbers of the program on that occasion, and, by request, "The Beautiful Blue Danube," which has been given before at the Sylvan Theater, will be included.

Programs Each Wednesday.

The programs will be given each Wednesday evening in July and August, with the exception of a special program to take place Friday, August 19, instead of Wednesday, August 17, under the auspices of the Greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade.

Each season, interest throughout the city becomes greater in these summer-time diversions at the Sylvan Theater, and among the cooperating organizations for this year will be Ye Olde Tyme Dance Club of Columbia Heights Community Center, which will present a program of early American dances on Wednesday, July 13, in conjunction with one of the prominent male glee clubs of the National Capital.

On July 20, Marian Chace and Lester Shafer, and their Washington Denishawn School of Dance will present the program, with a group of more than 20 dancers, and with Miss Chace and Mr. Shafer in new solo creations arranged especially for the outdoor stage at the Monument Grounds. On July 27, the Mabel Jones Freeman Dance Group will present one of the most unusual programs of the summer, with "Tribal Dances" as the featured number.

The Americanization School Association will open the series of August events with one of its colorful foreign-American dance and pageant programs on August 3. August 10 will be turned over to the District Bicentennial Commission and the District of Columbia Boy Scouts for a special program including as participants, members of the national organizations of boys and girls who are expected to be in the city at that time.

Playground Night Planned.

The third week in August will be featured by a program under the direction of the Greater National Capital committee; arrangements for Wednesday, August 24, are now being completed, and the final program of the series will be known as "Playground Night," on August 31, and will be arranged and presented by the Playground Department of the District of Columbia.

In case of rain on the evening of the program, it will be postponed until an evening later in the same week.

Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the Community Center Department, and Lieut. F. B. Butler, of the Office of Public Buildings and Parks, have been assisted in the arrangements for the present season by Miss Bess Davis Schreiner, Mrs. Edith H. Hunter, and Albert Clyde-Burton.

CLERIC ENUMERATES 12 REASONS WHY HE BELIEVES IN DRY LAW

Would Favor Amendment if Liquor Consumption Were Same, He Asserts.

DR. BURGAN PREFERS BACK-ALLEY TRADING

Says Prohibition Theory Is Supported by Sections of Scripture.

"I tell you frankly that if as much liquor were consumed under the eighteenth amendment as was consumed in the days of the saloon I would still be for the eighteenth amendment," said the Rev. Dr. H. W. Burgan, preaching last night at the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church. "Twelve Reasons Why I Am for Prohibition," was the subject of Dr. Burgan's talk, which featured a special celebration of the thirty-ninth anniversary of the District of Columbia Antisaloon League.

"I am taking one reason why I am for prohibition for each of the twelve years that the law has been in effect," the speaker said.

"Recently Senator Bingham gave ten reasons why the prohibition law should be changed. I am going the senator two better and giving twelve why it should be kept.

Says Alcohol Is Poison.

"First—Alcohol is a poison, and a poison containing beverage should not be permitted to be sold under the law.

"Second—This poison has peculiar effect on the functioning of the brain, slowing up the mental processes, and in this machine age no nation can allow such a condition to exist and expect anything except disaster."

Dr. Burgan pointed out that the railroad companies had been obliged to prohibit the use of intoxicating liquors by their employes before the days of prohibition. "Forty million persons in the United States today are engineers of automobiles, which do not run on tracks and do not keep schedules," he said. He completed the comparison by saying that "as the railroad companies did not allow liquor, so it would be fatal to allow the automobile driver to have access to the poison."

"Prohibition is thoroughly scriptural and I stand by the old book," Dr. Burgan said in enumerating his third reason.

Cites Grapejuice Miracle.

Carefully translating parts of the Bible, Dr. Burgan said: "Jesus changed water into grapejuice, which is allowed under the eighteenth amendment."

"I am for prohibition because it has driven the liquor traffic off the public thoroughfares and the streets. If liquor must be traded in, let them trade in back alleys without the sanction of the law," he said.

"The prohibition law has radically reduced the consumption of liquor in this country. Before the amendment went into effect there were nineteen gallons of liquor per person consumed annually in the United States." Citing Jane Addams, Evangeline Booth and Dan Beard as authorities on the amount consumed, Dr. Burgan said: "If you think there is this much now being consumed, you are mistaken."

"The opponents of prohibition have not been able to agree on a substitute, and I am for what I have until I know what I am going to get. They speak of the Canadian plan, and there are nine Canadian plans at the present time.

"The remedies which are being argued at the present time have all been tried and found to be failures. Nowhere is the substitute of the amendment as successful as the law is in this country.

"Conditions in the past twelve years have shown that we do not want the conditions of by-gone days again, when there were 170,000 saloons.

Says Wet Claims False.

"I do not like the logic of those who oppose the law. Because the Ten Commandments did not stop all sin, because the laws against murder and stealing have not stopped all of these crimes, we are not advocating that they be repealed," Dr. Burgan said.

"Many of the statements of the antiprohibition leaders are based on false facts.

"The statement that we owe our present condition of lawlessness to prohibition is not true. Two years before the law went into effect, the American Bar Associatoin went on record as saying that the United States was the most lawless country in the world. And the reason for this lawlessness is because 70 per cent of the young people under 25 years of age do not go into a church.

"Finally I am for prohibition for the cause of the young people. Coaches and teachers and educators throughout the country are agreed it is a good thing," he concluded.

Man Making Bond For Friend Seized

Is Recognized at Precinct Station as Suspect in Liquor Case.

Percy Wilson, 35 years old, colored, of 819 Twenty-sixth street northwest, went to the aid of a friend in distress yesterday and had to send out an S O S himself.

He went to the Third Precinct station to post bond for Tee Richards, 24 years old, colored, of 808 Twenty-fourth street northwest, who was held on an illegal possession of liquor charge.

While there, Patrolman B. T. Bean recognized Wilson as the companion of Richards, who escaped from an alleged liquor car after a chase through the Northwest section; and he was arrested. Twelve gallons of alleged liquor were found in Richards' car.

Man Hurt as Car Hits Post.

Hugh Watson, colored, 22, of 36 I street northeast, was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for fractured right thigh and possible fractured left arm, suffered when the automobile in which he was a passenger struck a lamp post on New York avenue northeast, yesterday morning.

Baby Squirms and Chuckles During Christening on Ship

Eight-Month-Old Henry Hartley, Jr., "Makes Eyes" at All Aboard, and Becomes Second Infant to Be Baptized on Old Ironsides.

Old Ironsides, sturdy patriarch of the United States Navy, now docked at the Navy Yard, was the scene of an unusual ceremony yesterday afternoon when the 8-month-old son of Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Henry Hartley was baptized in the cabins of Commander Louis J. Gulliver, captain of the ship. Lieut. Hartley is the executive officer on the Constitution.

While the ceremony was taking place the Navy Church pennant flew from one of the masts. It was the first time in 40 years that the pennant had been hoisted, and it was the second time in the history of records that a christening has taken place on the ancient vessel.

The ceremony was attended by about 20 relatives and friends, and ship's officers. Capt. Sidney Key Evans, chief of chaplains of the U. S. Navy, read the service, while Henry Hartley, jr., squirmed and gurgled and made goo-goo eyes. The youngster looked particularly proud of himself after the water had been applied to his little head.

During the first part of the service, little Henry watched the face of the chaplain with interest and chuckled during the entire latter half of the ceremony. He was held in the arms of his father, while his mother, in a blue, polka dot dress and picture hat, stood at his side.

Among those present besides the parents were: Mrs. Edwin McCullum, grand aunt; Mr. and Mrs. William Bowie, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ankis, Commander and Mrs. Saunders, Lieut. and Mrs. Kilroy, Lieut. and Mrs. Danenberg, Lieut. Swafford and Lieut. Butler.

Miss Jesse Olive Kennedy, aunt of the baby, was godmother, and Valere G. Savage, his uncle, was godfather.

The only other christening on board the Constitution, so far as records show, was that of Miss Mary Truxtun Eastman, of 1305 Seventeenth street northwest, daughter of Capt. Thomas Henderson Eastman, who was commander of the Constitution when it was the receiving ship at Annapolis. Miss Eastman was christened in November, 1868. Records reveal that one birth has taken place on the frigate, that of Stewart McCauley.

After the ceremony yesterday a tea was held in the wardroom.

KEEP HEART PURE, IS PLEA OF PASTOR

Three Essential Principles of Religion Are Cited by Dr. Palmer.

"I think I may take it for granted that all who hear me cherish some form of religion, although it is true that an ever-increasing number of men and women are saying by their actions, if not by their words, that they are through with religion," said the Rev. Dr. John C. Palmer, preaching yesterday at a special service at Temple Heights.

"They want to hold on to religion's moralities and its culture and education and its philanthropies as these all make for a higher plan of life. But we have gotten beyond the bondage of religion. We would change the holy days to holidays, we would rather walk by sight than by faith, by science, rather than by revelation. We will make the most of this life and its treasures and its friends, for we are sure of these, and not sure of any other," Dr. Palmer said.

"Yet the more loudly we cry that we are through with religion, the more strongly we assert that we want to be guided by the light of reason. Is it reasonable to forget nature's great universal laws?"

Text From Book of James.

Dr. Palmer's text was taken from the twenty-seventh verse of the first chapter of James, "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the widow and the orphan in their affliction and to keep one's self unspotted from the world."

Citing the words of his text, Dr. Palmer declared: "James' definition of religion is too brief to be all comprehensive, but it goes to the very heart of the matter and gives us three essential principles of pure religion. First, reverence before God; second, sympathetic beneficence, and, third, spotless purity of life and conduct.

"But someone says that that has nothing to do with religion. Religion is believing certain doctrines, it is faithful attendance at church, it is observing certain sacraments, worshipping after a certain form.

Keep Self Unspotted.

"But in that Church where James presided, I hear him say, 'No, no; pure religion, down-right, honest to goodness religion is this, to help the needy about you and to make the desolate sing for joy.'

"Then keep yourself unspotted from the world. If Christianity did nothing more, its divine origin were well authenticated by its demand for purity of heart. It is about the only institution that does demand it. Society does not, fashion does not, learned societies do not, the world looketh on the outward appearance, only God looketh through the silken veil, behind the ermined robe knocks at the door of reflection of every camber of desire and passion and asks, 'Is thy heart right?'"

The service was conducted under auspices of the Grand Masonic Lodge of the District of Columbia. Services will be held at the Temple Heights Church every Sunday through October 9. Next week the Rev. Dr. Simpson Daugherty, of the United Brethren Church, will speak.

FATE OF GRADUATES IS SERMON SUBJECT

Dr. Snyder Tells Pitfalls "No Thru Street" Holds for Unwary.

"At this season of the year there are hundreds of graduates from high schools, colleges and universities, and one can not help wondering what they all expect to be," said the Rev. Dr. Henry W. Snyder, preaching yesterday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Dr. Snyder's topic was "No Thru Street." Referring to this he said: "We all know what this is. You travel it a short distance and you come to its end. Occasionally you can turn around, but sometimes you must back out, or be towed out. At all events you have gotten nowhere in that street, and have only wasted time, energy, even money. We wonder how many of these young graduates will enter this route.

"Life presents the same difficulty. It is filled with streets, avenues and roads that are not throughfares. Schools are trying to anticipate this trouble by teaching vocational guidance even to those who are still young. Colleges have something of the same idea in mind in giving students a course in orientation. Young people are often attracted by the glamor of some calling, only to find out too late the limitations they have thrown around their career.

"The transgression of God's commandments is in general the entrance of one of these blind alleys. No human being can reach his goal this way. Daily we see the ruin of people who have fooled themselves into thinking that the other fellow did it, so why can not they. But the other fellow did not do it, and we can not. God is not playing favorites, there is not one law for me and another for you. We are all God's children, amenable alike to His laws, and all of us suffer from disobedience. Primarily, I suppose, covetousness is at the bottom of mistaking the right way and wandering into a no through street.

"If every one of us were asked where we are going, and what we are seeking, our unanimous answer would be, 'We are on the road to happiness and life.' But are we? We may be seeking these, but are we on the right street? That street can be found only along the way of obedience to God's command, and every other way to a no through street, ending in failure, disappointment and discouragement.

Post Model Home Throngs Increase

New Sligo Park Dwelling Proves Sensation in Construction.

When yesterday morning's overcast skies turned in the early afternoon to clear sunshine, the steady crowds that had been coming to The Washington Post model home doubled in volume. The new modeel home at 9138 Thornhill road in North Hills of Sligo Park is a sensation in residential construction. Throngs of visitors have inspected this fine home, showing qualified construction and every possibility for economic maintenance.

They have been most favorably impressed by the handsome dwelling built by the North Washington Realty Co., developers of North Hills of Sligo Park, furnished and decorated by The Hecht Co., and being presented by J. Wesley Buchanan, Inc., agent for the highly restricted community.

The home is a pronounced achievement in value-giving. It sets new standards of architectural and structural excellence in the moderate-priced field and the surprise of the year awaits those who visit it. The home is open daily and Sunday until 9 o'clock in the evening. To reach this delightful model dwelling, drive out Sixteenth street or Georgia avenue to Silver Spring, turn right at the traffic light on Colesville pike about a half mile to the entrance of North Hills.

Possible Fracture of Skull Fails to Deter Bridal Guest

A triviality such as concussion of the brain or a possible fracture of the skull is not sufficient justification for Peter Melitakas, 52 years old, to remain away from a wedding.

When doctors diagnosed his injuries as such, Mr. Melitakas just said: "Wrap it up; I can't miss that wedding." So they wrapped it up with gauze and cotton. Latest reports from the wedding reception had it that Mr. Melitakas was enjoying himself immensely, swathed head notwithstanding.

He was on his way to 1341 Girard street northwest to see his friend, Peter Kallvretends, 30 years old, and Miss Olympia Poezapruprnas, 28 years old, of Boston, Mass., take their marriage vows.

The car in which he was riding, operated by Charles Christophas, 32 years old, of 713 First street northwest, going east on Harvard street near Seventh street, was struck by another car and it collided with a third automobile en route to the wedding party.

The driver of the second automobile failed to stop. Christophas' son was treated for slight bruises. Melitakas was taken to Sibley Hospital but refused to remain in spite of physicians' advice.
